Wheat Rises, War Coming?
Read the "Want Ads."
Not Hurting Harding.
Animals in a Flood.
— By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

The price of wheat is going up. It went up ten cents a bushel yesterday. Somebody thinks another big war is coming. Wheat to make men strong and high explosives to kill them are the two important things in war.

More important, because more real and sure than another big war, is the sudden changes in labor conditions. That interests the hundred millions in this country, workers, employers and the families of both.

"Help wanted" advertisements indicate the condition of the labor market. In one single newspaper the number of "help wanted" advertisements has dropped more than ten thousand a week. That is REAL news. Intelligent citizens will study it and think about it. It means many things, including this:

The man who now holds a job that he likes or needs, will find it worth while to do enough work to keep the job.

The eminently respectable New York Times, speaking for its financial friends, rebukes Senator Harding for saying: "This government should make its Liberty and Victory Bonds worth all its patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them."

The Times, organ of large financial interests and supporting the peace league that the interests need "in their business," asks this question:

"Why should the Republican candidate for the presidency ladle out financial ideas which are both crude and perilous?"

Is it really "crude and perilous" to suggest that a government bond should be kept at its face value? That "crude and perilous" talk was not the sort that the Times ladled out to patriotic citizens when big business wanted those citizens to buy government bonds and enable the government to pay profits to the profiteers.

The Times is mistaken if it thinks to injure Mr. Harding by publishing the fact that he would like to see the man who lent Uncle Sam a hundred dollars in war get back that hundred dollars and not eighty-four dollars when he needs the money.

Every little while, in spite of itself, the dear old government makes a good bargain. It has not happened recently, not at Hog Island, for instance, or in the "aircraft" band of $1 a year profiteers.

But it did happen when this government bought Alaska for eight millions. Besides coal, gold, timber, millions of acres of good land in Alaska, the government got the Pribiloff islands and the seal fisheries.

When we bought Alaska there were more than three million seals in the herd. Greed and stupidity cut the herd down to a quarter of a million. This country arranged to pay England, Russia and Japan a part of the sealing profits if they would stop killing the animals in the open sea. Now the herd is growing and will be as big as it ever was. Soon one hundred thousand seal skins will be taken each year without diminishing the herd and pay this government fourteen million dollars annually. Not a bad annual return on an investment of eight millions.

To know what is happening in a country watch the price of food, the price of labor, and especially watch the demand for labor.

The other day the Pennsylvania Railroad discharged 12,000 from one division.

It is announced now that one of the biggest concerns in Chicago has planned to discharge 10,000 of its employes. That is cutting down with a vengeance. Workers and employers need to know about it.

While we are thinking over our own little problems, the great problem of peace or more war is developing in Europe.

Russia's advance, thus far irresistibly, toward the fringe of civilization, running up and down western Europe, may change the results of the war.

The question in the mind of the Allies undoubtedly is "What will Germany do to hold back Russia if she crosses the German border?"

And very likely the question in the German mind is, looking toward the Allies, "What will you give me if I do, as in years past, hold back Russia and continue to be the wall separating Russia and Asia from western Europe?"

They say that in a great flood animals which usually fight savagely and hate each other will float down stream together most peacefully, with never a thought of battle.

In the flood that threatens Europe, the rush of power from the northeast, we may see nations that thought they bitterly hated each other sailing down stream most amiably.

MARANVILLE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

MOVE TO STOP PONZI'S STAMP PLAN IN EUROPE

Washington, Aug. 6.—The making of fortunes by dealing in international reply coupons promises to be retarded, according to a statement issued by the United States Postoffice Department today.

Czecho-Slovakia has suspended the issuance of reply coupons, the postoffice department announces.

Germany has decreased the selling price of reply coupons from five marks to three marks.

Tunis has suspended the sale of the coupons.

The Postoffice Department announced that new international money order rates, announced some days ago, will be made effective August 15 and that postmasters will be held personally responsible after that date for losses incurred through failure to exchange at the new rate.

G. Wallace Tibbetts, vice-president of the Exchange Trust Company, today denied absolutely any connection with the "partners" of Charles Ponzi in the latter's proposed $100,000,000 corporation scheme.

Mr. Tibbetts declared that these men who call themselves the Commonwealth Trading and Securities Company of New York had used his name without his permission, that he had investigated this concern and would have nothing to do with it.

PONZI REFUSES OFFER.

It was with some of the directors of this company that Ponzi conferred yesterday.

One of the New Yorkers announced after the meeting that the conference was for the purpose of discussing the big new corporation in which the New York group were to be the partners of Ponzi.

Ponzi himself today refused to discuss this partnership. He said that the New York men had made an offer to him to buy out his original scheme.

MOVES TO PREVENT WAR

Lloyd-George Expected to Announce Acceptance of Russian Terms for Poland

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The Russians have broken the Polish front between Ostrolenka and Pultusk, and Red cavalry is approaching Warsaw, says an unconfirmed dispatch to the Arbeiter Abendblatt. The Russians might reach Warsaw today or tomorrow, the dispatch adds. Pultusk is only twenty-eight miles north of the Polish capital.

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 6.—Vigorous measures are being taken to prevent allied Europe from being drawn into a new war.

Premier Lloyd George is expected to announce in the House of Commons on Monday acceptance of the conditions laid down by the Soviet government in its note of Thursday, and that the proposed general peace conference will be held in London after all.

If the parley takes place Germany and the Baltic states probably will be represented, it was learned this afternoon.

There were active diplomatic exchanges between this city and Paris during the day. It was understood that Premier Millerand of France had not yet accepted Premier Lloyd George's new attitude, but the British Premier is hopeful that the allies will act in complete agreement.

The Soviet's note is understood to pledge Russia to enter into negotia-

Russia Can Fight on Without Money

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 6.—Allied military experts pointed out today that Russia has the advantage of being able to wage war without finances.

It is estimated that it would cost an allied nation $10,000,000 a day to conduct war on the gigantic scale on which Russia is now fighting.

As the Soviet controls all the Russian factories, railways and most of the food stocks, she is not compelled to float war loans to buy supplies, even if it were possible for her to do so.

SLAYER PUT IN DEATH HOUSE

Francisco Feci Condemned to Die in Electric Chair Week of August 15

Francisco Feci, thirty years old, condemned to die in the electric chair in the week beginning August 15, was removed today from the Middlesex County Jail in East Cambridge to the State Prison in Charlestown, Governor Coolidge has declined to intervene.

Feci, sentenced for the killing of Louis Fred Soulia at Billerica on October 28, 1918, was brought to the prison by Sheriff John R. Fairbairn and Deputy Sheriff Baker. He will be the twenty-third person executed in this State by electricity.

The condemned man, while not on the verge of collapse, appeared to be in ragged form. He was placed in cell No. 1, about ten steps from the chair in which he will be dispatched.

The killing of Soulia followed the beginning of an investigation into wholesale thieving at the Billerica car shops of the Boston & Maine Railroad. The thieves were believed to have killed him. His body was found partly buried in a dump.

Illinois Governor Calls Out Troops to Halt Bloodshed Following Murder

St. Louis, Aug. 6.—Illinois State military reached the riot-scarred town of West Frankfort today, according to information reaching here. Troops began the march quicker. Reports received from the town this with West Frankfort have met with failure because of a strike of telephone employes.

By International News Service.

Marion, Ill., Aug. 6.—A riot following a double murder at West Frankfort, a few miles from here, has outgrown local authorities, caused the deaths of at least five persons, the injury of forty others and the burning of a score of dwellings.

Rioting between enraged citizens and Italian residents began late last night and continued sporadically throughout the night. It came as the outgrowth of public indignation over the murder of two boys, Tony Hempel, eighteen years old, and Amiel Calcaterra, nineteen years old, whose bodies were discovered here two days ago. They had been brutally killed and their bodies mutilated. West Frankfort was at the mercy of a mob of several thousand persons throughout the night. Italians were beaten wherever they could be found and the torch was applied freely to their homes.

The reign of lawlessness began with the arrest of a Sicilian, Settino de Seanis, charged with the murder of

GET $500,000 TO KEEP SECRET

New York Firm, 'Rival to Ponzi,' Agrees to Make Profits for Clients Only

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 6.—A rival to Charles Ponzi, Boston's miracle money maker, faded out of New York's perspective, so far as the public is concerned, today, when Montgomery, MacDonald & Company, brokers, withdrew from the public and offered to return more than 40 per cent on every dollar invested.

Big interests, according to A. H. Montgomery, which have been Macdonald-Montgomery clients for years, have supplied the $500,000 which was wanted to end the affair in a closed one.

"We went to our clients with this proposition some time ago," explained Montgomery, "but they refrained from investing, even with so large a profit guaranteed. They wanted to know what we proposed to do with their money. We declined to tell them, realizing that they could reap full profit by themselves in case we did.

"We told them we would appeal to the public for funds. They didn't believe we would do it and continued to hold off. We showed them we would do it and at a late hour last night they capitulated, with the understanding that they will receive half our profits, which may go as high as 100 per cent, for them."

LABOR PROTEST MAY MAKE LLOYD GEORGE YIELD TO RUSSIA

WORKERS CONDEMN PLAN FOR WAR ON BOLSHEVIKI

those for a general strike just as soon as Ireland asks for home rule in the Russo-Polish war theatre.

BIG BRITISH LABOR PROTEST.

British labor is organizing a gigantic protest against military intervention against Russia and also against a tightening of the Russian blockade.

Premier Lloyd George is taking a middle course and in doing all in his power to prevent a new war which might sweep Europe, on the other hand there are indications that Secretary of War Winston Churchill, supported by Lord Northcliffe, is trying to swing Britain to the French view, which favors war on Russia.

The difference of views on the Russian situation has put the coalition government in a very delicate position.

A manifesto signed by a number of prominent labor leaders and demanding that the government agree to the terms of the Russian note was sent to the government today. The manifesto warns against "any clandestine attempt to secure British democracy's support for Poland."

MAY RECOGNIZE SOVIET.

There were indications that Great Britain would make further concessions to Soviet Russia to avoid war. Officials of the Foreign Office said that it might be possible to accede to the Soviet government's conditions, for a general peace conference without the small Russian border States being present. This might be considered tantamount to recognition of the Soviet government. It was pointed out, The British government has been feeling out the sentiment of the British people and found much opposition to war.

Two dispatches were received by the Foreign Office from Warsaw. The Poles were buoyed up by reports of victories over the Bolsheviki in southern Russia, but they fully realize their own peril. Polish government officials were quoted as saying they would "fight for the last inch of their soil like Belgium."

RUSSIAN NOTE HIDDEN.

Downing street has refused to give out the text of the Russian note, but it may be published later. Immediately after the receipt of the note there were many expressions of opinion that the Soviet government at Moscow had lost control of the army and could not halt the advance in Poland. This view has been considerably modified. The latest developments indicated this afternoon that Lenine is still in the saddle both as to military and civil affairs.

Reports reached London from Helsingfors that the Russians were dickering with the Finns for a two months' armistice to result in peace of Red troops for Poland. Earlier in the week the Russians broke off commercial negotiations with the Finns at Dorpat.

The Manchester Guardian, most powerful Liberal newspaper published of London, opposes talk of a war against Russia.

"No great war can be carried out without the unanimous consent of the nation, and what reason is there for such consent forthcoming now?" asks the newspaper. Russia, which was not attacked but attacked, has defeated her assailants. Russia has the right to treat with them directly. There has been no delay in the armistice negotiations, because the Poles are now in position to help, were unwilling to include in them the preliminaries for peace."

"The immediate object of the Russian note is to emphasize the importance of a resumption of armistice negotiations by the Poles," said the Daily News. "It seems certain that the Reds will cease their active operations the moment the armistice is signed, but otherwise they will be in Warsaw within a week's time. It is not impossible that a Polish delegation has already gone to Minsk to treat with the Russians."

The new declaration by Premier Walter Von Simons, German foreign secretary, that the nationalist party that Germany will maintain neutrality in the Russo-Polish war resulted from reports that the Poles were concentrating troops in the Strasburg and Belfort areas, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin. Dr von Simons threatened the disarmament of the Prussian if he they "violate German neutrality."

SPECIAL BOARD IN BERLIN.

A special commission has been appointed in Berlin to advise the government in Eastern European affairs.

Belief was expressed in military circles today that the Russians would be able to reinforce their armies now operating against the Poles and General Wrangel's "whites" as a result of the armistice which has been concluded with the Japanese in Siberia.

In the rush of war dispatches from the Russo-Polish war theatre news of the peace negotiated between the Bolsheviki and the Japanese at Chita was overshadowed. Aside from the bare announcement of the armistice no details have been received.

Russians Continue Drive Closing in on Warsaw

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 6.—Further advances by the Russian armies moving on Warsaw from the north and southeast are reported in the Polish and Soviet War Office communique wireless from Moscow today.

"We have occupied Kovel and Lask. Our troops have crossed the River Vistula and Pierse fighting is going in the direction of Osirov. We have forced the western Bug River in the direction of Siedlice. We occupied Busastch. Our advance continues."

Kovel is a city of paramount strategic importance from a military standpoint. It is 165 miles southeast of Warsaw. Railway lines from Warsaw, Moscow, Kieff and Brest Litovsk converge there.

The Poles are preparing to retire to the Vistula River, on which Warsaw is situated, it was reported in Koenigsberg dispatches today.

The Russians have thrown back the Poles from the Pissa River, west of Lomza, after violent fighting. A big Russian advance is reported in this district which borders the East Prussian frontier.

U. S. Troops Probably Won't Be Used in Poland

Washington, Aug. 6.—There is little likelihood of American troops being used in Poland, according to official belief here today.

News of the fall of Warsaw is expected almost hourly and it may be that the American legation has already left the Polish capital for Grundeng, northwest of Warsaw, on the road to Danzig. Ambassador to State Colby cabled Secretary Lansing White, charge d'affaires, to leave when he considered the danger imminent.

Great pressure is being brought to bear on the American government to participate in the effort now being made by the allied nations to save the situation for Poland.

Officials generally discredit the idea of the United States joining the allies with arms or men whatever else may be done. They do not appear sympathetic to sending additional troops to Europe at this time and admit there are too few already there to be of service even if American were disposed to use them.

Reports Secret Order to Dispatch French Troops

By International News Service.

Paris, Aug. 6.—A secret French army order has been issued to send the French troops now occupying the Silesian plebiscite area from Oppeln to Poland, sometime between August 5 and 12, according to a Basle dispatch to L'Information today, quoting advices received at Basle from Kattowitz.

It was reported in authoritative quarters that neither Czech-Slovakia nor Rumania would follow Premier Lloyd George's suggestion to attack the Russian Bolsheviki, unless they themselves are attacked. Both countries are said to be refusing to fight with Hungary. The latest news from Hungary is that the Magyar army was mobilizing for war against Russia.

France would not attempt to send troops to Poland, according to the newspaper Matin, because it is estimated it would take a month for any considerable force to reach the Russo-Polish battle front.

"If troops were sent they would necessarily be numerous to avoid the loss of French military prestige by defeat of a small force," said the Matin.

The Journal contends a more drastic blockade of Russia will not hurt the Bolsheviki.

"The Bolsheviki will laugh at any threats to refuse resumption of commercial relations" said this newspaper. "The Bolsheviki will have plenty of trade with Germany."

"If England, United States, France and Italy, however, are united in their divisions each they could easily stop the Russian advance," said Gustave Herve, writing in the newspaper Liberte.

Reports 70,000 Bolsheviki Captured by Wrangel

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 6.—Forty thousand prisoners have been captured by General Wrangel's anti-Bolshevik army on the Crimean battle front, according to a new Havas dispatch from Constantinople today. The forces of General Wrangel were reported to have decisively defeated the Reds, capturing much booty in addition to prisoners.

Thousands Flee Warsaw As Russians Advance

By International News Service and London Daily Express.

Warsaw, Aug. 5.—Via London, Aug. 6.—Grave news came through from the battle front today. Increasing the hundreds of fugitives from Warsaw, leaving this city for the west is resumed to the roof. Fifty thousand people left in the last twenty-four hours. A queue of persons over a mile long today waited in front of the government offices seeking the necessary papers to leave.

The allied military observers fear that the fate of Poland will be sealed within the next few days.

The British legation has decided on partial evacuation. It is reported, but without official confirmation, that the Polish government will be removed to Petrokrova and that the general staff will go to Kalish. Both cities are in the extreme western part of Poland near the Silesian frontier.

The immediate objective of the Russians is Siedlice. The capture of this important city would force a heavy Polish retirement. The Russians on the extreme left flank of the Polish army are driving on Mlava. Capture of the city would cut the main railway line between this city and Danzig.

The city is quite and is being patrolled by troops. A number of Bolshevik propagandists have been arrested by the military authorities.

Allied Envoys Differ as to New Polish Capital

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The English minister at Warsaw is urging the removal of the Polish government to Posen, while the French envoy is recommending Teschen, said a dispatch from Warsaw today, quoting reports current in diplomatic circles in that capital. The Poles were said to be urging the foreign embassies to remain in Warsaw.

If it true that the Russian drive has slowed down it is likely that there will be reconsideration of the plan to remove the Polish seat of government.

The Netter Berliner printed a report that the French and British missions had left Warsaw, but official information received by the German Foreign office contradicted this report.

Warsaw is described as quiet, but under stern military rule. Any indication of panic is instantly quelled by troops.

the two boys. When word was spread around that the murderer of the two boys had been captured, a mob gathered in front of the jail. Several deputies, however, had anticipated such action and they spirited their prisoner away to an unknown place. The mob, finding the prisoner gone, dispersed.

Fanned by the flame of general indignation it formed again late last night many times stronger than originally and then began a reign of disorder and riot that did not end until an early hour this morning.

Seeing that the situation was becoming desperate, Mayor L. Fox telegraphed Governor Frank O. Lowden at Springfield.

but that he had refused the offer as it was made.

Mr. Tibbetts declares that the New York concern not only used his name on its prospectus without his permission, but that he continued to do so after he had requested the directing officers to take it off.

"I sent a formal notification resigning from the Board of Directors on April 20," he said, "after I investigated the company.

EXPLAINED BIG SCHEME.

"I never consented to the use of my name. Two of the organizers of this company, Joseph E. Herman and Robert I. Johns, came to the Exchange Trust Company about a year ago on a matter entirely foreign to this one. They told of a new scheme which they were about to launch and told us that the Exchange Trust Company would be made the Boston depository if one of its officers were placed on the board of directors.

"We told them that we would investigate. We did so and found the organizers such that we did not want to have anything to do with them. Later I received a prospectus from them in which their plans were printed and in which it was claimed they had tentative business amounting to $20,000,000.

"I immediately requested that my name be taken from the prospectus and from the letterheads of the company. They evidently took no notice of my request until several months later."

NAME ENGLISH BANKS.

The letterhead of the company described the London County Westminster and Parr's Bank, Limited, of London as their English bankers. Mr. Tibbetts showed several letters from this bank asking for information as to the company.

In its list of directors is the name of Charles Myers of Melbourne, Australia, and London, yet Mr. Tibbetts says he has no letters from him, nor any evidence that the latter had no knowledge of the company but gave the particulars as to its financial condition.

In its prospectus the company declares that "Bronx Charles Myers & Co we will make large exports of raw products in wool, rabbit skins, foodstuffs, provisions, eucalyptus oil and other products."

OFFERED $100,000,000.

According to Ponzi the New Yorkers were willing to pay him $10,000,000 for the privilege of the use of his name, after they had taken their profits.

Ponzi said this would be unfair to the people, and that the money must be produced in advance before he would do any business in the New York men.

He repeated that he intended to stand on the proposed $100,000,000 corporation on Monday.

SPECULATORS BUSY.

There were but twelve noteholders at the "Pi Alley" entrance to the Securities Exchange Company office at the opening today, the majority of them matured notes. About twenty speculators were on hand attempting to buy them.

With U. S. District Attorney Gallagher in Washington today conferring with Attorney-General Palmer on the Ponzi investigation, an immediate declaration of what the probe has brought to light thus far, and what action, if any, the government intends to take against the young Boston financier, is looked for.

Every phase of the developments in the case were laid bare before the attorney-general who has, ever since the Ponzi mystery was brought to his attention, manifested a keen interest in the case. Reports from George W. Storck, chief accountant of the Department of Justice, assigned to the case by Mr. Palmer, occupied the attention of the Federal officials it is believed.

Co-incident with the conference at Washington was activity of the Federal investigators here. Although there were many conferences and meetings in this city, all attempts to learn the nature of them proved futile, and the entire inquiry was clouded as much as ever in mystery. This activity of government agents, however, is considered significant.

Edwin L. Pride, the Federal auditor, is meeting with considerable delay in his work, owing to the fact that Ponzi's bookkeeping system was rendered less efficient as the result of his tremendous business in the last few days he operated. It is now believed that he will be unable to make a formal report of his findings before next Wednesday at the earliest.

His work has progressed far enough, however, to indicate the size of the business operated by the financier. From a survey of the records it would seem that between 18,000 and 50,000 persons had placed their money with him.

Ponzi today declared that he had paid out in checks $165,952 yesterday, and that of this amount not over ten per cent. was made out to depositors who desired their principal back.

Says He Is One of Four Who Knows Ponzi's System

New York, Aug. 6.—Giving every evidence of affluence, expensively and tastefully furnished, the office of the Commonwealth Trading and Securities Company at No. 25 West Forty-third street, is awaiting their opening Monday as the headquarters of the Charles Ponzi Company, a new $100,000,000 concern, which Ponzi claims to have organized. Ponzi, in Boston, declares he will control the business.

SAYS HE KNOWS SECRET.

C. H. Meyers, an official of the company, said today that he knows Ponzi intimately.

"I have known him since he was a boy," declared Meyers. "He is absolutely honest and is a man of culture and education. He is the financial genius of the age. I am one of four men in this country that know the secret of his operations.

"I can say nothing officially at this time concerning any alliance this company may have with him. A statement may be issued to the press today.

COVERS LARGE SPACE.

The offices of the Commonwealth Trading & Securities Company occupy a large portion of the eighth floor of the building. The customary telephone operator and information clerk are met upon entering and a vista of a large number of desks, equipped with wooden office paraphernalia can be seen from the front. The space is divided with several private offices.

Lawrence Office Ready to Operate New Bank Scheme

Lawrence, Aug. 6.—Plans are already under way to handle the latest Ponzi scheme in Lawrence, it was announced by Percy Lamb, agent for Ponzi here. Interest monthly and a yearly dividend is said to be the newest idea, and hundreds have expressed a willingness to continue with Ponzi on a share-and-share-alike basis.

"As long as Ponzi says it is all right I am willing to push the scheme for him and his new associates," Lamb declared. "I believe the new idea will be run on a more conservative basis than the coupon idea."

Instead of asking their money back, would-be investors are daily besieging the office wishing to invest more. Some of the skeptical depositors who withdrew during the scare and who could not wait forty-eight hours for their check, are said to be in line with the men and women who almost insist that their money be taken back. They were told to call next week and "get in on" the new scheme.

TENNESSEE VOTE INTERESTS COX

Primaries in That State May Decide Fate of the Suffrage Amendment

By International News Service.

Dayton, O., Aug. 6.—Governor James M. Cox, Democratic Presidential nominee, today awaited reports from the state-wide primaries held yesterday in Tennessee, upon which the immediate fate of the woman's suffrage amendment may depend.

Thirteen vacancies in the legislature are to be filled, three in the Senate and ten in the House, according to Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political chairman of the National Woman's Party, who is here conferring with Governor Cox, election of that number of suffrage adherents would insure ratification.

The moral effect upon other members of the selection of candidates known to favor ratification would undoubtedly be great, Mrs. Baker said. The latest poll of the Legislature, Mrs. Baker announced, shows the following lineup:

Senate—Membership 33, pledged for ratification 15, necessary to ratify 17.

House—Membership 99, pledged for ratification 46; necessary to ratify 50.

Of those pledged, Mrs. Baker classifies two Senators and two Representatives as "wobbly."

She added that the vacillating statesmen apparently favor ratification as long as they are under the spell of the arguments of good looking suffrage workers, "but backslide upon entering the camp of the enemy."

Mrs. Baker believes Governor Cox would be willing to go personally to Tennessee and make a plea for ratification if he thought it would bring success. Mrs. Baker said: "Governor Cox asks action, while Senator Harding asks advice."

"Governor Cox is convinced that a majority of the women of the country would vote Democratic. Personally, I believe about 70 per cent. would vote Democratic."

Mrs. Baker declared there was a tendency among Republican members of the Tennessee Legislature to refuse ratification, "because they don't wish to see the Democrats get credit for the victory, and are opposed to suffrage anyway."

NAVY WAGE BOARD HEARS YARD WORKERS

Washington, Aug. 6. — More than 200 workers representing the forty Navy Yards in the country appeared before the Navy Wage Board today to urge an increase in all branches of Yard work, amounting to about 40 per cent. The board will hold daily hearings until all the evidence of the group have presented the cause of each trade.

An increase, which will bring the pay to 60 cents an hour, is the average request and it is claimed by the workers that this rate would be less than is now paid per hour for the same work done for private industrial concerns.

500 MEN FIGHTING TRI-STATE FOREST FIRE

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6.—Five hundred men are fighting a desperate battle today with raging forest fires that have swept across the northern end of the Kootenay forest in all directions from Wallace, Washington, Idaho and Montana, sweeping almost and west on Lamb Creek and Soldier Creek. The fires are out of all control.

MAY WIPE OUT ENGLISH STREET NAMES IN DUBLIN

Dublin, Aug. 6.—The city administration is considering a proposal to abolish the English names of the streets here, and substitute for them the names of the Sinn Fein leaders.

2 DIE IN DENVER STRIKE RIOT

Scores Injured; Street Cars and Newspaper Plant Wrecked by Mob

By International News Service.

Denver, Col., Aug. 6.—After a night of rioting and fighting, in which two men were killed, scores injured and the office of the Denver Post partly demolished, local authorities gained control of the disorders growing out of the street car strike at an early hour today.

A proclamation calling for 2,000 citizens to volunteer as special officers for the protection of life and property in Denver was spread broadcast throughout the city today. City officials are hopeful that the response to the appeal will be sufficiently large to make the presence of State or Federal troops unnecessary.

State troops may be called out today to take control of the situation. Governor Shoup has been requested to order out the soldiers, but after a conference with Mayor Bailey, it was decided to defer action.

Denver was under mob rule the greater part of the night. Two men were killed, two probably fatally wounded and scores were injured in the hours of rioting, in addition to the property damage done and which the injured is Chief of Police Armstrong. Hundreds of shots were fired.

RESULT OF CAR STRIKE.

The trouble has been brewing since the street car strike was called Sunday. It came to a head last night when strike breakers, of whom there are 500 in the city, attempted to operate the cars. Stones were thrown at the cars, shots were fired and the strike breaking crews dragged from their seats and beaten.

The crowds grew as the disorder became more general and then a section of it moved on the Denver Post building. The strikers claimed that the Post was against them.

Reaching the building a number of stones were hurled through the windows. Employes of the Post ran up an American flag over the building, causing a few minutes cessation of the fusillade.

WRECK POST PLANT.

It was only a momentary halt, however, for the crowd, urged on by the rougher element, surged forward, broke down the doors and proceeded to create chaos throughout the plant.

All the furniture in the business office was wrecked, weights and missiles were thrown into the linotype machines and fires started under the presses. A quantity of print paper was destroyed. Every window in the editorial and business offices was smashed. Some of the furniture was hurled into the street.

After a preliminary survey of the wreckage employes of the paper said they thought it would be possible to get out a paper today.

FAMILY OF 3 KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 6.—When their automobile was struck by a passenger train, E. J. Hollawell of Bronxlyn, his wife and ten-year-old daughter were killed at the Newberry railroad crossing of the Erie Railroad. Mr. Hollawell was secretary of the A. G. Spalding & Bros., sporting goods dealers, Nassau street, Manhattan.

To Elect President of Africa Aug. 27

New York, Aug. 6.—"It's time for us to go home to Africa."

This statement by the Rev. James David Brooks before the convention of the Universal Negro Improvement Association, brought the throng which packed Liberty Hall to its feet, and cheering and applause lasted fully five minutes.

"We're mighty grateful for all the white man has done for us, but—we want to go home, now. It's only manly for them to let us go back; they brought us over here," the speaker continued, and each statement brought round upon round of applause.

The executive committee of the association has decided that an American leader for the race be held on August 22, a provisional president of Africa be chosen on August 27 and a leader for all negroes be selected August 30.

CHARGE BOY AUTOIST WAS DRUNK; HIT MAN

Frederick Temple of Watertown was severely injured when he was thrown from the front seat of an automobile driven by Kenneth Perry of No. 24 Croft street, Newtonville, which ran into two machines parked outside the Newton Catholic Club, Washington street, West Newton.

Perry was arrested on a charge of drunkenness, but was later released by the police upon information that he is a minor. The two other occupants of the automobile fled.

UNIONS URGE RETURN OF OUTLAW STRIKERS

Washington, Aug. 6.—Efforts to secure government action to provide for the replacement of all "outlaw" railroad strikers in their old positions, were made by a delegation from the United Association of Railway Employes, headed by John Grunau.

The delegation called at the White House, the Department of Labor and the Department of Justice, to ask that the government use its efforts to have the railroads agree to accept the returning outlaw strikers.

EBERT SUES PAPER THAT CALLED "NIECE" A DANCER

Berlin, Aug. 6.—President Ebert has brought a suit against a Berlin newspaper for saying that his niece is dancing in the cafe, as a dancer in a cabaret show, the Tageszeitung revealed today. President Ebert was quoted as saying that the young woman in question is not related to him.

WORCESTER BARBER FATALLY ILL IN SHOP

OFFICER FAILS TO APPEAR

Patrolman McKay, Charged by Grocer's Wife With Drunkenness, Not in Court; Case Filed

As an aftermath of the rough and tumble fight between William Ospowicz, a Boston grocer, and Patrolman Edgar L. McKay of Station 6, in which Mrs. Ospowicz charged that the officer was intoxicated, Ospowicz was arraigned today in South Boston court charged with drunkenness.

His case was filed.

McKay failed to appear as complainant, but Patrolman Michael J. Curran, who interfered in the fight and arrested Ospowicz, testified. According to Mrs. Ospowicz, McKay had gone to their apartment over the grocery store at No. 307 West Fourth street and asked for a drink.

She said that he and her husband drank together for hours and that when McKay was about to leave he took off his hat and uniform and borrowed civilian clothing from Ospowicz.

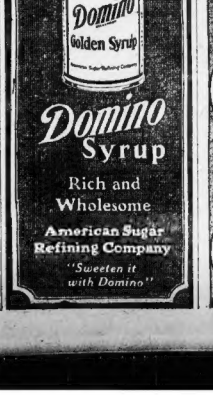
She showed reporters a coat marked with the name "E. L. McKay" and a cap with a policeman's number. As McKay was leaving, she said, he demanded another drink and on being refused, grappled with Ospowicz and drew a gun, which was unloaded.

Hundreds of persons in the street saw the fight and Officer Curran interfered. In the melee Ospowicz's hand was severely cut.

FIREMEN KILLED AT BIG BLAZE IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 6.—Several members of the Cincinnati fire department were killed and another probably fatally burned in a fire and series of explosions at the plant of the Refiner's Oil Company here. One unidentified body was received at the morgue. Lieutenant Fred Hoerl of Ladder Company No. 8 is among the known dead.

A cigarette stump thrown into the yard of the refining plant is believed to have caused the fire.



JOHN BARRYMORE WEDS BEAUTIFUL NEW YORK DIVORCEE

MARRIAGE IS ACTOR'S SECOND

Youngest Scion of Noted Stage Family Formerly Divorced in California

New York, Aug. 6—John Barrymore, star of the stage and screen and the youngest of the Barrymore trio of Ethel, Lionel and John, was quietly married to Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, once known as "America's most beautiful woman." The ceremony took place in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and only members of the two families were present.

Mrs. Barrymore is the former Miss Blanche Oelrichs, member of a socially prominent New York and Newport family, who has won considerable note by her poems. She was married in 1910 to Leonard M. Thomas. In April of this year it became known she had obtained a divorce some time earlier from her husband in Paris.

John Barrymore made his stage debut with his uncle, John Drew. He first caught the public's attention in "The Dictator," by Richard Harding Davis; then stardom followed in "Peter Ibbetson." Last season he and his brother, Lionel, scored the joint success of their lives when they co-starred in "The Jest."

The marriage in Mr. Barrymore's second. In 1910 he married Miss Katherine G. Harris. Their married life ended in 1917 when Mrs. Barrymore obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce in California on grounds of desertion.

Miss Ethel Barrymore (Mrs. Russell Colt), sister of the bridegroom; Lionel, John Barrymore's brother, and Lionel Barrymore's wife; postmaster and Mrs. Thomas Patten Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oelrichs, cousin of the bride; Charles Oelrichs, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Archie McKay, were the only guests at the ceremony.

For several weeks it had been Broadway rumor that Mr. Barrymore's heart has responded to the lilting verses from the pen of Mrs. Thomas, who wrote under the pseudonym of "Michael Strange." A few friends had whispered of an approaching wedding, but definite details were forthcoming from both sides.

AUTO RACE ENDS CALL ON WOMEN IN ARREST

Salesman Apprehended in Dorchester After Car Hits Man at Hough's Neck

Alleged to have escaped his pursuers after a wild ride through Hough's Neck, Charles F. Dore, No. 20 Waining street, a salesman, was finally arrested in Dorchester, charged with striking Richard Mahoney, of South Boston, and fleeing after the accident. The persistence of four Roxbury youths led to the apprehension.

Richard Mahoney, aged twenty-one, of Dunning street, South Boston, was repairing a tire on an automobile on Sea street, Quincy point, when, it is alleged Dore, passing the scene hit Mahoney, and then fled. Mahoney was taken to the Quincy Hospital suffering minor injuries.

Four Roxbury youths, in an auto, James Kenney, Henry Garrity, James Timilty and a companion were following the machine which struck Mahoney and they pursued the fleeing car through Houghs Neck and Quincy, but their quarry escaped.

While passing through Dorchester the pursuing auto, driven by Garrity, again encountered Dore's machine, Garrity states Dore once more attempted to elude them and again they gave chase, finally causing Dore's arrest. He was booked at the Dorchester police station and held for the Quincy police.

2,000 CASES OF ITALIAN VERMOUTH ARRIVE HERE

Two thousand cases of Italian vermouth, the first large shipment of liquor to be imported since the outbreak of the world war, were brought in by the Italian steamship Mongibello, arriving at some time yesterday in South Boston, from Naples. The vermouth is in bond for Montreal, and will probably be transferred directly to cars which will be sealed by government officials before starting to the Canadian city.

HAVERHILL STRIKE OF SHOE WORKERS SPREADS

Haverhill, Aug. 6—The strike in twenty local counter, toplift and tap factories has spread and the employes in the W. F. Walton and Mattson & Troian factories in this city, and the E. E. McKeen factory in Merrimac are out.

The union officials say that they will call strikes in every factory employing union men until the new lists are signed or a compromise is effected. About 1,000 employes are now idle.

FIND WHOLESALE LARCENY OF GAS

Agents of the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Company, while changing meters in the district in preparation for the new gas rate effective September 1, discovered wholesale larceny of gas in two houses on School street, Waltham. In one case it was stated that the meter had been removed and that the feed pipes were in direct connection with the street main, and in the other the meter had been reversed so that it registered backward.

13,542 BALES OF WOOD PULP ARRIVE IN HUB

Wood pulp, aggregating 13,452 bales, reached here from Gefle, Sweden, in the steamship Lake Flatonia after a passage of twenty days. The officers declared that outrageous prices are demanded at Swedish ports for supplies required by American vessels.

POTATOES SELL AT 40 CENTS

Public Market in Ronan Square Cuts Prices on All Garden Truck

Potatoes at 40 cents a peck were the feature of the open air market conducted today in Ronan square, Dorchester, under the auspices of the city. The market was in general charge of Percy F. Connolly, assistant superintendent of markets, and was patronized by all classes, many automobiles being filled up for purchases.

A "run" on potatoes closed out the entire stock in short order. The prices ranged from 40 to 70 cents, the same commodity being posted in windows of nearby provision shops at from 65 to 70 cents a peck. Other prices were: Beets, 5 cents a bunch; cabbage, 5 cents a pound; beans, four quarts for 25 cents; apples, three pounds for 25 cents; onions, 3 cents a pound.

Big shipments of early potatoes which have reached the Boston markets has resulted in a steady drop in the price during the past few days. The lowest prices quoted are sixty-five cents a peck, the highest eighty-five cents and the average seventy-five cents.

Beef is due for another increase as a result of the wholesale advance, according to Boston marketmen. Corned beef prices have been increased. Other beef prices will advance slightly within the coming week.

Fancy brisket is 40 and 42 cents a pound, ribs are 28 cents, and corned stickers 28 cents. Sunday's roast, that is a sirloin, will cost 65 cents a pound; rib roasts are 35 to 40 cents and a rump roast is 40 to 50 cents as it is cut. Bottom of the round is 50 and 55 cents, top of the round is 60 to 70 cents, sirloin steak is 70 cents, and rump steak 80 cents.

LAMB 45 TO 48 CENTS.

A leg of lamb is 45 to 48 cents, legs and loins are 45 cents, and forequarters 25 to 30 cents, the latter price being charged when they are boned. Rib chops are 55 cents and kidney chops 65 cents. Pork to roast is 40 to 45 cents, the higher price being charged for Eastern pork. Pork chops are 45 to 48 cents. Whole hams are 45 to 48 cents, bacon strips are 40 to 45 cents, bacon sliced is 60 to 65 cents, corned and smoked shoulders are 28 cents, and fresh shoulders are 30 cents a pound. Lard is 10 cents a pound and salt pork 25 cents.

Fresh fowl are 50 cents, ducks are the same. Frozen chickens are 45 cents, fresh broilers are 50 cents and fresh roasting chickens are 55 and 60 cents a pound.

PEACHES PLENTIFUL.

Peaches appear to be plentiful. They run all the way from 20 cents a dozen, with very good ones selling at 30 and 35 cents a dozen. Grapes from Delware are now at 25 cents for a small basket. Blueberries are 30 to 40 cents a quart. The last of the raspberries bring 35 to 40 cents for a pint basket, gooseberries and red and white currants are 25 cents a basket. Huckleberries are 35 cents a quart.

LETTUCE CHEAP.

Lettuce is selling three heads for 10 cents, onions and cabbage are 5 cents a pound, cauliflower sells at 10 cents a bunch, green peppers are three for 10 cents, green peas are 15 cents a quart and 2 quarts for 25 cents, corn is 20 cents a bunch, green and wax beans when fresh are two quarts for 25 cents, when dried are 10 cents a quart, beets are 5 cents a pound or 8 cents a bunch, spinach is 15 cents a peck, corn ranges from 40 to 75 cents a dozen. Good native corn may be bought at 60 cents.

The seasonable and reasonable fish in the market for today is swordfish at 20 cents a pound. Mackerel has gone up in price from 25 to 30 cents a pound and are early in the week. Finnan haddie, turbot and lemon sole are 25 cents, scup are 26 cents, butterfish 25 cents, halibut 30 and 35 cents, smelts 45 cents, bluefish 30 cents, salmon 45 and 60 cents a pound. Eastern salmon, which brings the higher price, will soon be on the market, as the law goes on the middle of this month. Live lobsters are 45 cents and the boiled 60 cents, crab flakes are $1 a pound, and soft shell crabs are $1.50 a dozen.

Cod, haddock and flounders are 10 cents a pound.

The high price on strictly fresh hennery eggs are 93 cents and the low 85 cents in the market yesterday. Eastern eggs are 80 cents and the very best Western eggs 80 cents, which also are the tendency of the egg market to be upward.

BRITAIN AND U. S. IN FREIGHT WAR

Japan Included in Bitter Fight for Shipping on the Pacific Coast

San Francisco, Aug. 6—One of the greatest freight rate wars in the history of the Pacific coast shipping battle today.

On one side are aligned Great Britain and Japan, on the other side is Uncle Sam's Shipping Board.

The rate cutting so far only affects coast shipments of grain and flour to the United Kingdom for September-October loading.

As a result the rate has dropped $8 a ton already. The rate established by the Shipping Board for September-October loadings was $28 a ton. The shipping interests learned that three British ships had been chartered to haul the grain for $25 a ton.

The Shipping Board promptly met this cut by reducing its rate to $20 a ton. This cut will immediately place in operation a large fleet of freighters controlled by the Shipping Board.

WANT MORE MEN FOR MEDITERRANEAN TRIP

Inactive reservists who wish to go will enlist for active duty for not less than twelve nor more than eighteen months.

HYGIENE ASSOCIATION HELPS 8,000 CHILDREN

Miss Margaret Winslow and Robert Winsor, Jr. have been elected to the board of the Baby Hygiene Association, which has inaugurated a campaign for the prevention of sickness among children. The gains made by the association are shown by a registration of 8,000 babies this Summer against 6,000 registered last year. The association has five dietitians on its staff. It will not close till it has one dietitian for each of the twenty welfare stations. The nutritional work with children of preschool age is the newest phase of the work.

MEETS BROTHER FIRST TIME IN 44 YEARS

Marlboro, Aug. 6—William A. Whitman, a former resident of this city now of Atlanta, Georgia, met his brother, Edwin F. Pulsifer, Washington, for the first time in forty-four years at Clinton, Connecticut on a fishing trip today. Delbert left the family home at Annapolis, Nova Scotia, when William was seven and Delbert went West, where he now conducts a large shoe business in Seattle. He is a county city treasurer and is a judge. He has a wife and seven children. William is also a salesman, with a wife and one child.

MILK WAGON DRIVERS DEMAND HIGHER WAGES

An increase in wages of $1 a day has been demanded by the milk wagon drivers in the employ of the milk contractors of Boston. The men, practically all of whom belong to the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, have asked that the new scale of wages go into effect on September 1. The employers have not reached a decision

Here's a Slight Ray of Hope for the 'Wets'

It wasn't much of a ray of hope, but the few New Englanders who still bemoan the passing of public houses, taprooms and the like took a little comfort today from a Washington report that if a chap stores fruit juices in his cellar and the naughty fruit juices develop an alcoholic content of 10 per cent., or thereabouts—why, that is up to the fruit juices. Uncle Sam cannot and will not do anything about it.

But—the warning comes from Washington—do not monkey with nature. Do not add sugar. Drop sugar into what nature is doing to your fruit juices and you are guilty under the law of making a mash fit for distillation." This is absolutely prohibited.

Store blackberry juice and let it alone—no sugar and no heat—and it will be found to contain as much as 1 per cent. of alcohol.

Grapes of a common New England variety have been known to develop 10 per cent.

Blackberries, strawberries, raspberries and so on are "there" with 1 per cent.

The National Prohibition Commissioner declines to set any limit on the alcoholic content of homemade beverages. It is up to the fruit and the drinker. The latter must use his own discretion. If he can tipple something with a 15-per cent. wallop in it and still say "truly rural, truly rural, truly rural," all will be forgiven.

But the bird who goes fussing around with heat and granulated sugar, they say in Washington, may expect to see his home raided as a distillery and will be liable to arrest and imprisonment.

On one side are aligned Great Britain and Japan, on the other side is Uncle Sam's Shipping Board.

The rate cutting so far only affects coast shipments of grain and flour to the United Kingdom for September-October loading.

As a result the rate has dropped $8 a ton already. The rate established by the Shipping Board for September-October loadings was $28 a ton. The shipping interests learned that three British ships had been chartered to haul the grain for $25 a ton.

The Shipping Board promptly met this cut by reducing its rate to $20 a ton. This cut will immediately place in operation a large fleet of freighters controlled by the Shipping Board.

Valuable Heirlooms in Robber's Booty

These spectacles and case, probably of the Revolutionary period, were found when the police recovered several thousand dollars' worth of stolen property.

Woman Seeking Father She Never Saw

The Boston American has been appealed to by a young Roxbury woman to aid her in finding Benjamin Cohen, her father, whom she has never seen.

She has canvassed all the Benjamin Cohens in house and telephone directories without success, but is convinced he is living in Boston.

The woman in question lives at No. 81 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury. Her father and mother separated shortly after she was born. The family was then living in Russia. Eighteen years ago she found out that her father had married again and was living in London, England. They communicated for a few months, and she again lost track of him.

She has heard from family friends that he is somewhere in Greater Boston, and that he has eight surviving children by his second marriage. The Roxbury woman is married, and has four children of her own. She wants to see her father before he dies.

Police inspectors working under instructions from Captain Ansley C. Armstrong have recovered several thousand dollars' worth of property alleged to have been stolen by Albert A. Lindley, alias Frank Roy and Henry Sheffield. Included among the recovered articles are some apparently priceless heirlooms.

One identification particular is a pair of spectacles which were the property of Captain George Crowninshield, Sr., of Salem, and were apparently of the Revolutionary period. This pair of spectacles is a hand-wrought affair in case of very great age and inside the case is a slip of paper on which is written: "These spectacles belonged to Captain George Crowninshield, Sr., of Salem. He married Mary Derby and was Frederick's great grandfather."

Lindley is at present serving a two-year sentence in the State prison at Windsor, Vt.

Many of the articles found were apparently treasured by old families as mementos, and on that account Captain Armstrong wants to have them identified. In addition to the spectacles there is a short Egyptian necklace with several Egyptian scarabs set in it at intervals. Another and longer necklace has numerous colored stones in it, with an Egyptian mummy case locket at the end.

WAR VETERANS CHEER HARDING

Republican Nominee Would Bar Foreign Powers From Calling Americans to Battle

Marion, O., Aug. 6—A gathering of veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World Wars cheered Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, when he told them: "We do not want any councils of foreign powers to summon American boys to battle."

"If there is any call for American soldiers to fight for civilization or humanity, let it be an appeal to the American conscience and the American people will respond gladly and freely, as they have always done," Senator Harding said.

ONLY DEFENDED RIGHTS.

"I know I have been criticized for what I have done about our part in the world war. The Senator continued, "though I believe we have played our part in upholding democracy throughout the world, the simple lesson I took is we did not go to war until American rights had been violated, and this we went to war to defend our American rights."

The Senator made no direct reference to the League of Nations, but it was evident from the enthusiastic response to utterances made with that issue in mind that he meant America and Europe should decide for themselves what it should be employed in foreign wars.

SPEECH IMPROMPTU.

The Senator's speech was entirely impromptu. It was also brief. He had gone to a park on the outskirts of Marion, where the old 4th Ohio—a regiment that served gloriously in the Civil, Spanish-American and World Wars—was holding its annual reunion. He had not intended to speak, but the men and women with whom he and Mrs. Harding mingled insisted upon at least a few words from him. He finally consented.

ROXBURY DRIVER HURT IN CRASH WITH CAR

Emar Knudsen of Roxbury is suffering from a fractured leg when an automobile truck he was driving and a Boston Elevated car collided on Massachusetts avenue, near Highland avenue, in Arlington. The crash was heard for some distance, and passengers on the electric car were given a fright. Both the truck and car were damaged and Knudsen sustained many deep cuts from flying glass. His face was also badly battered up and bruised.

BABY FALLS 30 FEET TO BRICKS, IS UNHARMED

After a fall of thirty feet to a brick sidewalk on Joseph Stern three years old, yesterday afternoon, was found by physicians of the City Proper Hospital to be unharmed. He fell early today while looking out from a window of his home, No. 47 Zeigler street, Roxbury. He was held at the City Hospital to which he was taken by police ambulance for observation.

SPINSTER, AGED 117, DIES IN NO. CAROLINA

Raleigh N. C., Aug. 6—Miss Dorcas Griffin of Big Laurel Madison County, N. C., died at her home at the age of 117 years. According to a family record she was born on March 29, 1803.

Lowell Back Sept. 10

President Lowell will be back on the job at Harvard September 10. The president has just sent a cablegram to this effect. His trip abroad, despite the nature of a vacation, has proven a splendid tonic so the president has written his associates in Cambridge.

PLAN BETTER CARE FOR WAR RISK PATIENTS

By R. G. CHOLMELEY-JONES.
Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

So important do I regard the plan of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance to provide adequate hospital care and treatment for disabled ex-service men and women throughout the United States that I will endeavor to set forth the situation herewith in explicit terms so that the entire community may have an understanding of the task and of the government's plan to meet the present need.

The wide distribution of the more than 37,000 War Risk patients in more than 1,600 hospitals, which are scattered here and there throughout the United States, many being small, under-equipped and in remote places, has been a matter of great concern to the disabled men and women themselves, to the American Legion and to the government alike.

SHORTAGE IN ACCOMMODATIONS.

There is a great shortage in hospital accommodations. This is true, both regarding civilian patients and government patients. The number of War Risk patients being hospitalized is increasing between 1,500 and 2,000 per month and by the end of the year may include 50,000 individuals.

It is only because of the absolute lack of available hospital properties that the government has been compelled to send, in this, an emergency matter, into so many public and private institutions. This situation was pointed out to Congress, realizing the gravity of existing and prospective conditions, the Congress authorized the Secretary of War, under civil appropriations bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the use of army and navy hospitals and the National Homes for disabled volunteer soldiers for the care of War Risk patients. These made available approximately 10,000 hospital beds more.

PLAN TO GROUP PATIENTS.

Under the arrangement provided by Congress, these patients may be brought together in groups as high as 1,000 individuals in one government hospital or sanitarium, where the most complete and adequate equipment and facilities may be had for treating every manner of disability.

The government obtained the advice and co-operation of the National Welfare Committee of the American Legion, and such provisional organizations as the National Committee for Mental Hygiene of the Rockefeller Foundation and the medical director, Dr. Thomas W. Salmon; the National Tuberculosis Association and its director, Dr. Charles A. Hatfield, and many other organizations and individuals whose experience and interest in the matter rendered them most competent to aid the government in developing the vast hospital program for its disabled veterans.

It was decided that all district supervisors, medical officers in charge of army, navy public health hospitals and national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers, should understand clearly that the basic purpose of the regulation was to bring into actual being, so far as practicable and in the best interests of the individual patient, that program which has been advocated for a considerable time by the American Legion and others equally interested in the health and welfare of our disabled soldiers, sailors and marines.

TO KEEP CLOSE VIGILANCE.

It will continue to be the purpose of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance to keep a close vigilance over every phase of this program, to endeavor to make certain that no injustices are done by reason of a misinterpretation of any official regulation or instruction.

If this program is to be carried out in every detail as originally intended, we must have from every one interested all assistance and co-operation possible, so that we may be informed promptly of all instances where for any cause or thing the best interest of these patients does not appear to be served to the utmost.

"I regard it as a duty and a privilege to co-operation if, when in their opinion or the opinion of the individual patient, or particularly the opinion of the doctor in charge of the patient, it is not to their best interest that he be moved at present into a governmental hospital, any one acting such an opinion is asked to advise the district supervisor of the U. S. Public Health Service in charge of that district so that immediate personal attention may be given to each individual case.

CERTAIN CASES EXCEPTED.

It is important that I advise that, for the present, the removal order will not be made effective in the case of the following classes of patients:

1—Neuro-psychiatric patients.
2—Bed patients.
3—Patients taking vocational training.
4—Any patient whose condition would make it inadvisable to transfer from his present location.

It would, of course, be ideal if all or a majority of disabled ex-service men and women in each State could be cared for in hospitals located within that State. The lack of facilities, however, is a serious drawback to this plan. It is quite likely that it will be necessary for the government to lease additional hospital facilities, and the government will appreciate to the utmost such co-operation as can be given in meeting this situation.

Colonel R. G. Cholmeley-Jones director of the War Risk Insurance Bureau, was in Boston today on a meeting with government plans for the care and housing of sick and disabled World War veterans. He was in conference with State Commander Colonel Edward L. Logan of the American Legion, Mayor Peters and other officials of the city and the legion. Later he visited places suggested as hospital sites under the present plan.

Colonel Jones' mission is to look over the ground in Boston preparatory to putting in force the plan authorized by the last Congress—that of caring for veterans in government hospitals instead of under the private hospital system. He is an enthusiastic advocate of the new scheme, which he outlines in a special article appearing exclusively in the Boston American today.

Colonel Cholmeley-Jones was accompanied by General George H. Wood, president of the National Soldiers' Home. General Wood is also a believer in the new plan, which he says will make veterans assets instead of liabilities to the nation.

300 Morse Employes Attend Outing

Some of the jolly participants in the annual outing of the Leopold Morse Company, at the Riverside recreation grounds. On the bench, left to right: Mary Pagliarulo, Maria Dente, Elinor Scrimes, Nellie Pisu, Esther Slupino, Angelina Pagliarulo. Above, left to right: Kathleen Welch, Marjorie Vegett.

Sport was one of the many features enjoyed by members of the Leopold Morse Mutual Benefit Association at the second annual outing of the organization, held at the Riverside recreation grounds, Auburndale. Valuable prizes were awarded the winners of the various athletic contests. Three hundred attended the outing.

Among the honored guests were Ferdinand Straus, president of the company; Leon Straus, treasurer, and Stephen Casey, manager of the store.

Accompanied by a band, the party left Brattle street on special cars at 9 a. m. At the park a series of athletic contests occupied the attention of the merrymakers until noon when a basket lunch was served. The company provided ice cream and other refreshments. During the afternoon an exciting baseball game took place between teams representing the retailers and wholesalers, and dancing was enjoyed from 4 to 7 o'clock.

The general committee for the outing was composed of George O'Brien, John Culhane, William McDermott, Clifton S. Marks and Miss Mary Fitzgerald. The sports were under direction of Thomas Brady, William Murray and William Purcell.

30,000 MEXICANS SENT AGAINST INSURGENTS

Mexicali, Mex., Aug. 6.—Reports have just come from Ensenada to Governor Esteban Cantu, insurgent governor of Lower California, that the provisional government expeditionary force of 20,000 men has been landed from Guaymas.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 6.—Governor Jose Chavira of the state of Colima, is in open revolt against the de facto government of Venustiano Carranza, according to official advices received here.

Further reports from Mexico state that General Lazaro Lara, who is head of a considerable force, has revolted in the state of San Luis Potosi.

ADAMS POTATOES DROP FROM $1.50 TO 59 CENTS

North Adams, Aug. 6.—In the merry war being engaged in by local merchants, who are selling with one another in cutting prices on potatoes, the south side men are selling for fifty-nine cents a peck. When the price-cutting began two weeks ago, potatoes were selling for $1.25 a peck. Many are now predicting potatoes at a dollar.

LABOR IN ROW OVER LEAGUE

Compers Attacked at State Convention for Tactics Used to Obtain Endorsement

The Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, holding its thirty-fifth annual convention in Oriole Hall, Lynn, resumed today its bitter debate over the League of Nations issue, which, when injected into the convention, resulted in attacks on Samuel Gompers for his all-out "steam-roller tactics" in pushing a resolution indorsing it through the Montreal convention.

The trouble started when a substitute resolution, calling for the indorsement of the league with reservations was introduced. Two other resolutions, one of which was recently adopted by the Boston Central body and both of which condemn the league, were then brought forward by Frank H. McCarthy.

After hours of debate, during which many delegates left the hall, the convention was unable to thresh out the matter and adjourned. The substitute resolution follows:

CORRECT VOTING ERROR.

Whereas, We are unalterably opposed to any action in the League of Nations being granted a preponderance of votes in such league, and demand a correction of that error at the earliest opportunity, and

Whereas, We are opposed to any authority other than the American government acting under the Constitution of our country, having any authority to send American troops to foreign countries for any purpose whatever and demand that such authority be withdrawn if it exists, and

Whereas, We demand that the people of this country and of the world shall have the unqualified and unrestricted right of applying to themselves the right of self-determination and of setting up for themselves such form of government as they may elect to live under without interference or opposition from any outside sources, and

PASS WITH RESERVATIONS.

Whereas, We believe that the League of Nations, while not a perfect document, still provides the best machinery of procedure yet devised for the prevention of war, and the settlement of international disputes in the calm light of reason and justice, instead of by the slaughter of human lives and the destruction of untold wealth, and

Whereas, We know that it establishes for the first time in the world's history the opportunity for the votes of the world's labor to be heard in its own behalf, therefore, be it

Resolved, That with the reservations and declarations as stated above, we indorse the League of Nations and urge the ratification of the treaty to the end that the United States government may take its seat at the council table and through its great moral influence with the people of all nations bring peace and justice to the peoples of the world.

SURPRISE OUTING FOR HYDE PARK KNIGHTS

James J. Chittick council, Knights of Columbus, Hyde Park, will hold its second annual outing on next Sunday at a place as yet unknown to the members. At 9 o'clock on Sunday morning members and friends will gather at the council rooms and board a two-hour ride from the club headquarters. There will be sports for boys and girls as well as for the older folks, and one of the features will be a ball game between married and single members. Frank Hiney, former high school athlete, will captain the married men's team and Thomas Finn, well known in baseball and basket ball circles, will lead the single men.

PARACHUTE JUMPER AT UNITED DRUG PICNIC

"Jack" Murphy, a veteran parachute jumper, will leap from a speeding airplane as the feature of the annual outing of the employes of the United Drug Company, to be held at Riverside Recreation Grounds, Weston, Saturday. Other features of the picnic will be a baseball game between the United Drug Boston team and the Liggett team of New York, races and field events, aquatic sports and dancing. Louis K. Liggett will be present.

ANNAPOLIS CANDIDATE BARRED FOR CHEATING

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 6.—The application of two youthful candidates for the Naval Academy were revoked when it was learned that one of the men, unable to pass the examinations on two former occasions, had attempted to gain admission by procuring the services of a successful candidate who had passed the tests to take the examinations for him. The ruse was detected by the examining board.

POISONED WOMAN'S LIFE IS SAVED AT HOSPITAL

Suffering from some undetermined form of poisoning, Mrs. Annie Power, aged twenty-eight, of No. 2 Smith street, Roxbury, was rushed to City Hospital in the Roxbury Crossing police station ambulance just in time to save her life. She was unable to tell what she had taken or the reason for taking the poison.

CHARLES E. COTTING DIES AT MANCHESTER

Charles E. Cotting, one of the largest real estate holders in Boston, is dead at his Summer home in Manchester after a long illness. He is survived by his wife and a son, Charles E. Cotting, Jr., Harvard '11. The funeral arrangements have not been announced.

HAYES SCORES "DRY" AGENTS

Commissioner Questions Right to Raid Homes for Liquor Without Warrants

Questioning the right of prohibition agents to enter a man's home and search it for liquor without a warrant, United States Commissioner Hayes postponed the case of Max Cohen of Revere, accused of having alcohol in his possession, and discharged Louis Hoffman. Both reside in the same house.

Mrs. Cohen testified that when she and her husband returned from the theatre they found Federal agents ringing the bell.

She asked their business and testified they said they were Federal agents and were going to search the place. She said they admitted they had no warrant, but also stated, "They didn't need one." This, however, the agent denied. She also said the alcohol, which was seized, she had bought before the prohibition law went into effect.

Assistant United States Attorney Hatton believed the commissioner simply should consider the evidence that was before him. "That won't go down," said Commissioner Hayes. "Has a man the right to go into another's house and say, 'I am a Federal agent, I want to search? If there are any opinions rendered in this district, I'll look them over. Otherwise I should rule they were acting illegally."

BROWN QUITS CONTEST FOR STATE TREASURER

Harry N. Brown, of South Acton, withdrew from the contest for the Republican nomination for State treasurer, following the charge that his nomination papers contained at least 100 fraudulent signatures.

Brown said in his statement of withdrawal that his papers were circulated by others and that he had no knowledge or intimation of any irregularities. He said that the fact that one fraudulent signature had been discovered would be sufficient to cause him to withdraw from any contest. He, however, may be an independent candidate at the November election.

30 AMERICANS RED CAPTIVES

Held Prisoner by Bolshevists in Moscow, According to Cable Reports

Washington, Aug. 6.—Thirty Americans are being held prisoners by Bolshevists at Moscow, according to the story told by four other Americans who have reached Viborg, Finland, a cable received at the State Department from a department agent at Viborg reports.

The names of the four Americans, a Viborg dispatch stated, are Arthur Prince, Detroit, a corporal in the 339th United States Infantry; Frank King, Columbus, Ohio, a newspaper correspondent; Harold W. Fay, and Mrs. Emily Sarman, both of New York city.

NEW DYNAMITE CHARGE FOUGHT

Medford Official of Upholsterers' Union Resists Extradition to Illinois

Edward E. Graves of Medford, vice-president of the International Association of Upholsterers was recently before Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court on his petition for habeas corpus to be released from arrest on an executive warrant issued by Governor Coolidge at the request of Governor Lowden of Illinois.

Graves has been indicted by the Grand Jury of Cook County, Illinois, charged with conspiring to dynamite buildings in Chicago during a strike of upholsterers last April.

INDICTMENT ATTACKED.

The sufficiency of the indictment was attacked by counsel for Graves, and it was claimed also that the extradition proceedings were not in accordance with the laws of Massachusetts. One irregularity relied upon was that an important affidavit necessary to secure extradition was made in Boston and not in Chicago.

In view of legal questions raised Judge Pierce decided to reserve the case for the full court, and admitted Graves to bail in the sum of $5,000.

Since that time a new indictment has been returned against Graves by the Grand Jury of Cook County, Illinois, and Governor Coolidge issued a second executive warrant for the arrest of Graves.

UNDER $5,000 BAIL.

This warrant was served by State Officer Keating and counsel for Graves filed another petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Braley of the Supreme Court was notified by telephone and ordered the writ to issue returnable yesterday afternoon. The judge came from his summer home at Edgartown, and the case not being ready for hearing he admitted Graves to bail in the sum of $5,000 to appear on Monday afternoon next.

TWO MEN INJURED ON DEATH CURVE

North Wilbraham, Aug. 6.—Two Palmer men were injured, one of them seriously, in an automobile accident on the Boston road, near Sand Hill, known as the Death Hill or Death Curve section. The highway inspectors are searching for a woman who is believed to have been in the car and fled, following the accident.

Joseph Lablanche was removed to the Mercy Hospital, Springfield, where it is said that he will die. Peter Hulburt, his companion, was also removed to the hospital suffering severe injuries.

WOMAN MAY DIE FROM AUTO INJURY

Haverhill, Aug. 6.—Mrs. H. H. Cole of No. 6 Wood avenue, Groveland, received injuries that may prove fatal when struck by an automobile operated by Chesley Downes, Jr., of this city, as she alighted from a street car at Main and Arlington streets. She was removed to the Gale Hospital suffering fractured skull and other injuries. Mrs. Mary A. Robertson of No. 72 Webster street, mother of Mrs. Cole, was slightly injured. She was taken to her home.

COMPERS FIXES TERMS OF INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—"Until capital concedes to labor the right to collective bargaining there can be no industrial peace in the United States," Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in commenting on Senator Harding's speech.

"Collective bargaining is the first essential to industrial understanding, agreement and peace," Gompers said.

AGITATOR CAUGHT AFTER SEARCH OF TWO YEARS

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The capture of John Alexander, alias John Lagranch, alleged agitationist during the war and radical agitator since the armistice, is heralded in this city a search which has continued for two years and has led from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Alexander was arrested in a Hudson street apartment.

Irish Seeking Glimpse of Mannix's Ship

Dublin, Aug. 6.—Hundreds of Sinn Feiners are enroute to the south shore of Ireland in the hope that they will be able to catch a glimpse of the steamer Baltic and cheer Archbishop Mannix, who is on her and enroute to Liverpool. The beacons on the hilltops to bid him welcome have been lighted.

The military searched houses on an extensive scale today. The inhabitants were forced to obtain permits to move outside of the villages.

The boycott against Belfast products maintained because of the exclusion of Sinn Fein workers is in full swing.

FRANCE JOINS OIL GRAB

Aiding Great Britain to Tie Up World's Fields, Senator Phelan Learns

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—Revelations of the extent of the British government's campaign to secure domination of the oil supply of the world, have been made through United States sources of information, which were received by United States Senator James D. Phelan.

Data collected in the investigation Senator Phelan is making in cooperation with Federal government agencies has arrived. This shows that Great Britain, coupled with France, is seeking not only the tying up of new fields of enterprise in oil development, but is forming a combination with the great Dutch oil interests to get preferential control of oil output all over the world.

It has been discovered that there is a definite movement under way by the British government to use its power under the covenant to maintain supremacy in the oil fields.

Senator Phelan say he learns that officers of the Royal Engineers are making extensive surveys for a railroad and pipe line in the coast through Syria, which is within the French zone. France for that reason is claiming her share of the spoils.

In a summary statement concerning the various oil interests throughout the world, it is shown that the British government controls or is interested in virtually every spot outside of the United States in the world where oil has been found or where oil resources may be exploited.

HAVERHILL MILLS START ON 3-DAY WEEK SCHEDULE

Haverhill, Aug. 6.—The Pentucket Woolen Mills in this city, employing 400 hands, will curtail production beginning next week and will be operated only three days a week for an indefinite period. Superintendent John H. Currier said the mills, as well as other mills owned by the Stevens combination in Andover, North Andover, Franklin, Hopedale and Pawtucket, R. I., will be affected. The mills have been running on full time up to the present.

KIDNAPER HAD LONG RECORD

Pasquale Identified as Coughlin Blackmailer by Fingerprints Found Near Child's Room

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—With a criminal record that dates back many years to the fringe of his boyhood, Augusto Pasquale, the blackmailer in the kidnaping of Blakely Coughlin of Norristown, has been established as the man who lifted the child from his crib on the morning of June 22.

Finger-prints taken from the man's criminal record at detective headquarters have been compared with the photographs of finger-prints that were found on the window of the Coughlin home and it is reported that they tally identically.

GRILLED FOR FOUR DAYS.

But events this has deepened the mystery and instead of solving the case and restoring the lost child to its parents, the investigators admit they are deeper than ever in the mire.

Pasquale, in spite of a frightful grilling that has lasted four days, in which the man has neither been allowed to sleep nor rest while postal inspectors and State police have pounded him with questions, has maintained that he was hired to hang the flag and recover the package as it was thrown from the train near Egg Harbor last Monday afternoon. He has admitted doing that, but further than this the officers say, he has held his tongue. He says he has been but an uninformed tool.

BELIEVE HE WAS TOOL.

Sent out of the veil of secrecy which the officials have attempted to throw about their man have come the stories. First, that Pasquale has told in whose custody the baby is held, and officers are attempting to keep this information secret while finding the person holding the child. The second and more widely believed story is that Pasquale was a hired agent to steal the Coughlin baby.

FEED NERVES PLENTY OF PHOSPHATE IN SUMMER
Keen-Minded Men, Energetic and Successful Rely on It, Asserts Prominent N. Y. Physician.
Nitro-Phosphate a Godsend.
Men and women, nervous and frail, easily upset and often find indigested plenty of organic phosphate, and the more they eat the better their health will be.
In every one of the millions of cells that make up your body, phosphorus is a most important factor.
Your nervous system, your brain, your blood and certain bone tissue also have a sufficient supply of phosphorus or weakness, nervousness, poor general run-down condition as well as lack of normal nerve force, is sure to result.
Big men of affairs—highly nervous control industries because of sheer will power and determination, know full well if they don't, are clever enough to have a physician who does.
Physicians name and prescribe organic reinforcing that Nitro-Phosphate, as dispensed at drug stores, is necessarily to every forty per cent of men and women because present day foods do not contain enough phosphate to give the body and especially the nerves what they supply it needs.
Speaking on this very subject, Dr. Frederick E. Kolle, Editor-in-Chief of Physicians' Who's Who and a national authority on nerves and nerve books, in a most emphatic statement to us, says:
"If I had my way, Nitro-Phosphate would be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital."
Dr. Kolle goes on to say: "When the nerves become begins to lose its vitality, its tone begins to lose its youth and vivaciousness. Her lively, pleasant disposition fades away and she becomes irritable, unsympathetic, moody and despondent. Nitro-Phosphate is a godsend. 2 more men and women were saved, if the efficacy of Nitro-Phosphate were known.
Her weather is needed by men and women who are weak, thin, nervous and lacking in vigorous development because it helps their vitality at most to the breaking point.
To all such people Nitro-Phosphate is recommended because it is the new organic phosphate which, when absorbed by the system, will supply the element necessary for a vigorous, healthy body free from any suggestion of weakness or disordered nerves.
Your druggist has Nitro-Phosphate in the original package with complete instructions for best results.

QUINCY TENANTS TO FIGHT ORDER

Only Two Who Were Told to Quit Government Houses Find New Homes

The seventy tenants in houses owned by the United States Housing Corporation at Quincy Point who have been served with eviction notices are preparing to fight the action.

W. K. Hanscomb, president of the Tenants' Association, said:

"We are awaiting the return of our counsel, Frank J. Duffy. He is in Washington. We are to fight.

DOUBTS LEGALITY.

"Personally, I don't believe the notices to vacate are legal. Although they are dated August 2, they bear the postmark 'August 5, 2:30 p. m.,' and do not come within the thirty days.

"We will bring into force the Hays bill, and will fight every move of the United States government to drive us into the streets. The houses in which these seventy tenants are living now have not been sold.

"Monday these tenants paid their rent for August. They were not told of the proposed notices and were greatly surprised and disturbed when they received them by mail. I personally visited Mr. Greg, the collector. He was most courteous and stated that he knew nothing more than he had received orders from Washington to issue the notices. He intimated that the tenants who are occupying houses not sold and who did not get notices this month would get notices to vacate next month."

ONLY TWO FIND HOMES.

Only two of the tenants who have been served with notices to vacate have succeeded in securing houses. Inadequate housing facilities in Quincy and Greater Boston is hindering those who wish to secure new homes.

Ray W. Greg, who served the notices, stated that he knew nothing further than the orders, which he had received from Washington.

13 AUTOISTS PAY $5 FINES IN DORCHESTER

OLD SWEETHEARTS WED AFTER QUARTER CENTURY

Lawrence, Aug. 6.—Albert Craven, of No. 62 Washington street, this city, and Mrs. Annie Mitchell, of Bradford, England, sweethearts of twenty-five years ago, were married here by the Right Rev. Arthur Wheelock Moulton, bishop of Utah. The bride journeyed across the water 2,000 miles to wed. The couple lived in the same city in England. Craven sought his fortune in America. He returned several years ago to marry his old sweetheart, but she was already married. Her husband died since then. Mr. Craven is a weaver, employed at the Wood Mill.

WORCESTER MAN GETS DECORATION FROM ITALY

Worcester, Aug. 6.—Henry Harmon Chamberlain of Worcester has been made a Knight of the Crown of Italy by the King of Italy. He has just received notice of this honor at his Summer home, Beachside, Nantucket. The cross was probably conferred in recognition of the services of Mr. Chamberlain on the Worcester committee of the Italian war relief fund.

WORCESTER PLANNING FOR 200TH BIRTHDAY

Worcester, Aug. 6.—Mayor Peter F. Sullivan has appointed a committee of about sixty prominent citizens to make arrangements for Worcester's celebrating the 200th anniversary of its incorporation as a town. The date of the celebration will be June 14, 1922.

Boston Girls Entering For American Swim

Anna Roust, 13-year-old water nymph of No. 671 Broadway, South Boston.

Belle Thorner, aged 15, of No. 586 Third street, South Boston.

With hands and feet tied, Fred J. Jenner, aged nineteen, of No. 81 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, will give an exhibition swim at the carnival of the Boston American to be held in the Charles River Basin Saturday afternoon, August 28. He will be placed in the water by his manager, George F. (sport) Goodwin, of No. 10 Terrace street, Roxbury.

This will be one of many features arranged by the Swimming Editor. The dominant event is the New England championship swim for girls. The course is one and one-half miles and 200 feet. The start will be from the raft of the Metropolitan Park Commission, opposite he Union Boat Clubhouse, at the foot of Revere street, up stream to the stake boat near Harvard Bridge. The turn will be made at the left of the boat, thence down stream to the starting point.

RACE FREE TO ALL GIRLS.

Remember, girls, the race is free. It is open to any girl in New England, which includes Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. The winner will be adjudged champion of New England for 1920. Irene Demars of Ludlow won last year, her contest her time being 59 minutes and 58 seconds.

The contest is exciting interest throughout the country, and it is figured that more than 100 swimming girls will take part. Among the entries today was olive Russell Friedberg, twenty, of No. 28 Irma street, Dorchester, late of the "Midnight Frolic Company." She says she is out to capture first prize.

'TRIANGLE' WIFE IN HIDING

Parker, Defendant in $100,000 Love Suit, Admits He Cared for Mrs. Chisholm

New York, Aug. 6.—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Chisholm of Newark, N. J., were agog today at the rapid developments in their lives in the past few days.

Today the husband reiterated that he had offered William C. Parker, third in the eternal triangle, the opportunity of eloping with his wife. Parker declared the whole matter absurd, and Mrs. Chisholm was somewhere in New York, said to be working at $18 a week.

CARED FOR MRS. CHISHOLM.

The whole situation became known when Chisholm sued Parker for $100,000, charging alienation of affections.

"Although I cared a great deal for Mrs. Chisholm," Parker said today, "it was in a purely friendly way.

"It is true that Mr. Chisholm made such an offer, that his wife, whom he professed to love and admire, elope with me. I am going to fight this thing to the limit.

"I have known Mrs. Chisholm for a period of years. It is charged by Chisholm that we conferred closely over the situation and planned to elope at his direction July 8. We never intended to do such a thing. We simply went on an auto trip. I forget where, and returned later, as we expected.

WIFE STILL IN HIDING.

Mrs. Chisholm could not be located today. Her mother said that she and Chisholm are the only ones who know Mrs. Chisholm's whereabouts.

"She is working and earning her own living. Her wages are $18 a week," she added.

CARRIES NEWSPRINT TO CUBAN PAPERS

On assurances from the Cuban government that newsprint and provisions would be unloaded despite the strike at Havana, the United Fruit Company's steamship Lake Louise sailed from Long wharf carrying the first cargo shipped to the Cuban capital in several weeks, the port having been tied up so far as handling of freight is concerned. Havana harbor is congested with idle tonnage and loss to owners and charterers will run into the millions.

U. S. S. NEW JERSEY PUT ON RETIRED LIST

The battleship New Jersey, which has been stationed at the Boston navy yard for 14 months, goes out of commission today and, according to its commander, Captain H. D. McIntire, will not again enter the service except in a grave emergency.

The vessel is one of the five dreadnoughts constructed under an appropriation of Congress in 1906. Another was the Virginia, which is also undergoing process of being taken from the service at the navy yard.

ROSLINDALE MAN IS HURT BY AUTO TRUCK

George Brown, aged forty, of No. 366 Belgrade avenue, Roslindale, was seriously injured when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile truck. Brown was crossing Beacon street at Audubon Circle when he was struck by the truck, owned by the Eagle Fruit Company of No. 1288 Beacon street, Brookline, and operated by George A. David of the same address.

CANOPIC SAILS FROM NAPLES FOR BOSTON

Any doubt as to the continuance of the Boston-Mediterranean service of the White Star line, suspension of which was threatened as a result of existing quarantine regulations, has been removed by an announcement from the local office that the steamship Canopic had left Naples for Boston, according to schedule. The liner had one of the largest passenger lists of the year. The Canopic should arrive August 20.

ENLARGE ARLINGTON TELEPHONE EXCHANGE

To properly care for the business resulting from the great growth of the Arlington telephone exchange, extensive alterations and additions are being made on the local building of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., on Medford street, that town. The building is being enlarged by the construction of an annex, which will be three stories high.

LOSES TEN PONTOONS IN TRIP HERE FROM NORFOLK

A string of ten iron dredge pontoons reached here from Norfolk in tow of British tug Sarnia City, which was two weeks traversing the 600 miles and lost ten out of twenty pontoons the first night out. The pontoons broke adrift and, when located by the tug, were anchored one by one that had filled and sank. The destination of the tow is St. John, N. B., and the Sarnia City will be assisted by tug Humacoa.

H., $70,000.

Charles Wyland Coe and Henry Willard Coe, two nephews, who reside in California, received $25,000 each and a $1000 annual income. Mrs Coe received $24,000 annually. United States bonds and the personal effects in the Coe home. The trust will continue during the lifetime of Mrs. Coe and the nephews and until the descendants of the latter have reached the age of twenty-one.

ACID THROWN DESTROYS CLOTHES OF PEDESTRIANS

Chicopee, Aug. 6.—A carbolic acid thrower who does not attempt to disfigure his victims, but throws the poison on their clothes, has made his appearance in this city. The police have received several complaints, the latest being made by Zinn Kaiser of No. 87 Chestnut street, who stated that clothing valued at $150 had been destroyed by acid being thrown on the garments.

BOSTON AUTOIST FINED FOR DRUNKENNESS

William E. Dyer of No. 27 Isabella street, Boston, paid a $50 fine imposed by Associate Justice Edward B. Brown in the District Court at Lynn for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was driving along the state road in Swampscott when his car collided with another machine and was overturned.

WOMAN LEAVES NEARLY $1,000,000 FOR CHARITY

Nashua, N. H., Aug. 6.—Public bequests totalling $1,282,073 are made in the will of the late Miss Mary A. Hunt, which has been filed in the Probate Court here. Practically the entire estate is left for the proposed Mary A. Hunt Home for Aged Women. A bequest is made to the John M. Hunt Home for Aged Men, which was founded by Miss Hunt's father.

GOLD PROSPECTOR OF '48 DEAD IN WILLIAMSTOWN

Williamstown, Aug. 6.—Sampson Sanders, ninety, the oldest resident in this section, and who went to the California gold fields in 1849, is dead at his home on the Oblong road. Two weeks before his death he worked in a hay field, and on his 90th birthday, last May, he danced a jig to show he was in good health. He is survived by a son and four daughters.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED HER LIFE

Lawrence, Aug. 6.—Alex Mason, accused by his wife of being a Bolshevist and claimed to be worth $100,000 in cash and real estate, will be arraigned here August 21 on a charge of threatening to take his wife's life. Mrs. Mason had been in her native Russia since 1911, returning here in June. Her husband rebuked her for coming, it was stated in court, when the man denied the allegations. Mrs. Mason also alleged that her husband has a growing affection for her mother. The husband has about 100 tenements and has dealt extensively in real estate. He denied that he gave his sister-in-law property.

TOURNEY ATTRACTS BIG FIELD

Barnes, Ray, McLeod, Brady and Jones Some of the Leading Stars

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

It is difficult to keep tabs on the many golfing events which are taking place at this time, but next week the interest of all golfers will be centered in the United States open championship at Toledo.

No finer field ever started after the greatest honor in American golf than the one which is ready for the word to start at Toledo. Some people thought Toledo was lucky to obtain the Dempsey-Willard fight, but Toledo is much more to be congratulated upon the city selected for this year's open championship.

It is difficult to pick a winner. No player is better than a six to one shot against that field, but Walter Hagen, the present champion, should be the best bet with Jim Barnes, Ted Ray, Freddy McLeod, Jock Hutchinson, Mike Brady and Bobby Jones the other favorites.

Dates for the open tournament at the Rockport Country Club which was scheduled for this week-end have been changed to August 27 and 28 in order to avoid a conflict with the tournament at Hatherly.

There is something of a golf feud on in Philadelphia. Members of some of the clubs do not get on well with members of some other clubs. The trouble seems to be that the game has not been properly democratized in the City of Brotherly Love.

* * *

The open tournament at Hatherly began today, and will continue tomorrow. The tournament committee has arranged an attractive program which will carry over into the week end, with an exhibition match Sunday, in which Francis Ouimet will be one of the participants.

$1,000 Gift to Herman for Martin Bout

Terry Martin, his manager, Alex McLean, and $1,000 which is promised Champion Herman the minute he enters the ring with the New England titleholder.

Data Herman, world's bantamweight champion, will be presented with $1,000 by Alex McLean any time he enters a ring in a title battle with Terry Martin of Providence. To show good faith, McLean has posted a certified check with Jack Conway of the American sporting staff, with instructions that $1,000 be paid to Herman if the latter battles the New England bananweight champion.

"Martin is another Battling Nelson," said McLean today. "I believe my proteges can easily beat any bantamweight in the world in a twenty-round bout. I am a member of the old school of boxing and so it is only natural that I should believe that title battles should be fifteen or twenty rounds.

"Martin never seems to tire, while his opponents slow up after six or eight frames. Jack Sharkey is a mighty rugged miller, but Martin had him handing on in the eleventh round of their bout.

"I'll present Herman with $1,000 the moment he enters a ring with Martin in a title bout. I won't waste time talking about a $10,000 gift like some of our present-day managers do. When I say I'll give Herman $1,000 if he fights Martin, I'm not talking merely for publicity. I'll back up my words with the hard cash.

"I think Martin can beat any bantamweight living. If Herman is afraid to meet the New England champion, I'll sign my protege to a tussle with Jimmy Wilde provided the latter can be induced to enter a ring with Martin."

BROOKLYN NELSON AFTER MICKEY DONOVAN

Charley Cardio dropped in at the sporting department today to inform us that Brooklyn Battling Nelson would like to secure a match with Mickey Donovan of Brockton. When these men clashed at Whitman several months ago, honors were even. In the event that Donovan does not care to risk his laurels in a tussle with Nelson, the latter is willing to clash with Eddie Shevlin or Nate Siegal.

JIM MONTGOMERY SEEKS ACTION IN THE RING

Jim Montgomery, who declares he is the Irish middleweight champion, is making his home in Boston. He comes to bat with the glad tidings that he would like to meet any man of his weight in this part of the country. Montgomery showed against Kaye Harry Miller at the Mooney benefit and made a good impression.

Municipal links golfers of Boston are beginning to get their game up for the first New England Municipal links individual and team championship which will be played at Hartford, Conn., September 4th. Worcester, Hartford and Boston will be represented.

Each city will be allowed to enter as many municipal links players as it wishes and all participants will play 36 holes over the municipal links in Goodwin Park. The golfer who returns the lowest card for the 36 holes will be awarded the public links championship medal. The scores of the lowest five or ten golfers from each city will be used to determine the team championship.

The number of cards which will count in the team championship will be determined after the entries have been received. Boston should do well. George Aulbach, Joe Burns, S. Dineen, Jack Read and others will be on hand to represent Scarboro in the municipal championship.

Tournament committee of the Worcester Country Club plans to make the open event there August 19, 20 and 21 one that the golfers will remember. Like other mid-season tournaments there will be more than golf on the program. Stanley J. Brennan, chairman of the tournament committee, says that the Country Club will keep open house the first night with dancing and a putting contest on the artificially lighted green.

Massachusetts golfers who have not yet played the Worcester Country Club course have missed one of the best in the East. Worcester is up to championship standard in every way. The greens are fully as large as any in the State and well trapped. The fairways afford fine lies and the countryside over which the holes are laid out is as green and beautiful as any spot in the State.

The Massasnscok golf Club of Milford has a player in Ted Walcott who lacks nothing but a little practice to make most of the amateurs in the State stop. Ted only gets away from business occasionally, but when he does he shows enough stuff to indicate that with plenty of time for the game he would knock off a few of the mighty.

Hunter Is Medalist on Pittsfield Links

Pittsfield, Aug. 6.—James T. Hunter of North Adams, with a 79, won the medal for the lowest score in the qualifying round of the annual golf tournament at the Pittsfield Country Club.

R. H. Ball of Adams, former Dartmouth golf captain, who made an 88 in the qualifying round, broke the course record with a 74 in a practice round. The former record for the course was 77 and was held by J. A. Toole of Holyoke.

E. K. Gardon of the Siwony Club made the eighth hole in one strike. It was an uphill shot, a distance of 154 yards, the first time the hole was ever made in one stroke. A field of seventy-three started in the qualifying round and it is the strongest field that has played here.

The four golfers who scored 89 in the qualifying round must play off to determine which three shall remain in the first sixteen.

LONDOS IS AFTER GARDINI MATCH

Light Heavyweight Champion Ready to Risk Title in Contest Here

By JACK CONWAY

The Summer weather apparently doesn't have any more effect on our noble wrestlers than it has on the young Bella Beroes horsebeats. Just when it was beginning to look as though all the mat stars had decided to pastime at the beach resorts until the Fall along comes Waldeck Zbyszko and hurls a challenge at Renato Gardini, Italian heavyweight, who recently gave Stecher a merry battle at the Revere cycle track.

Zbyszko apparently started something. Jim Londos, world's light-heavyweight champion, heard the call of the mat again and wants the world to know that he stands ready to battle Gardini.

"I think the fans would be more interested in a match between Gardini and myself than in one in which Waldeck Zbyszko would be pitted against the Italian star," writes Londos. "I am the world's light-heavyweight champion. Although he has wrestled all the heavyweights of prominence, Gardini is really only a light-heavyweight. So a tussle between Gardini and myself would be a regular championship affair."

With Gardini, Waldeck Zbyszko, Londos and a flock of other mat stars, apparently all eager to display their wares, Promoter Lou Daro should not experience any trouble in securing suitable talent for the wrestling carnival he plans to stage at the Revere Cycle Track on the afternoon of Labor Day.

Report Britt Has Quit the Ring

Frankie (Young) Britt, who has not fought since he met Young Kloby at Lawrence, is said to have gone into retirement. If this report is true, the New England promoters should be looking around for some youth who has the proper mettle to become a champion. Of the New England lightweights, South Boston Johnny Downes looks like the best. While the promoters are arranging matches between our local lightweights Downes will be considered as the boss of the New England 133-135 pounders. He's a clever boxer and stiff hitter and should have an easy time disposing of most of his challengers in this section of the country.

New York A. C.

Pat McDonald of the New York A. C. will be one of the few men who competed in the last Olympic games in 1912 to again represent America at the coming games in Antwerp. McDonald at the last Olympic games won one first and a second place. At the recent tryouts at the Stadium he came through in first place in the 16-pound shot put event.

GREAT ARRAY IN 3-MILE RUN

Dorchester Club Making Strong Bid for First Honors at Scotch Games

The Dorchester Club will enter a formidable array of athletes in the Scotch games which will be held at Caledonian Grove, West Roxbury, tomorrow afternoon, and will try and dispute the H. A. A. for the big honors in the different events. Coach Billy McVicar of the club believes that with so many of the Uniform cracks overseas competing in the Olympic games the Dorchester Club will have its best opportunity.

McVicar has entered Billy Mahoney and Sampson in the 100 and quarter-mile runs, J. Sampson and D. Monson in the half-mile, and in the mile will have the two Doherty's, J. A. and J. L.

But it will be in the three-mile run that Dorchester will make its biggest bid. In this event Jimmy Henigan, Tom Henigan, Leroy Davis, Runar Oilman, Tom Lilley, George Costarikas and Dominic St. Paul will be the big cards. Coach McVicar has been steering these runners especially for the big distance race, and he is perfectly confident that the majority of his entries will finish in the leading places.

BRAVES ARE PREPARED FOR BUSY SEASON OF DOUBLE-HEADERS

HARD DAYS AHEAD FOR LOCALS

St. Louis in Twin Bills Tomorrow and Monday; the Reds Come for Three in a Row

By NICK FLATLEY

One game per day ceased at Braves Field, for quite a spell after the Cards and the Tribe had their lone pastime this P. M. There are more double headers ahead than there are contestants for the National League pennant. The Cards have one on the morrow, and again Monday. Then the Reds arrive for three in a row.

It will be a tough test for the native pitchers, but with Watson on the job, and Rudolph in shape, they should weather the overtime work at least as well as the enemy.

For today's single game, large John Scott was ready, as well as Oeschger and a few others. Getting ready for the double headers has provided Stallings with plenty of talent for a single joust. The enemy had Goodwin, who finished up the first game and Jess Haines to like to work.

The visiting team hasn't the pep and punch that marked it on the previous visits, the rough treatment encountered on the trails evidently having wrecked the victory spirit. Our Braves, from a casual viewpoint, are confronted with a splendid chance to pick up points in the standing.

TALBOT SLUGGERS BAT OUT EASY WIN

Talbot defeated White at Soldiers Field in the heaviest batting game of the season in the Department Store League. Talbot batted for 16 hits with a total of 21 in six innings. Murray for Talbot pitched a good game. He allowed only three hits and struck out eight men.

McDonald of White was batted hard for the first time this season.

JAMAICA PLAIN K. OF C. TO HOLD 10-MILE RUN

The Jamaica Plain Council, K. of C., will hold a ten-mile road race in conjunction with its second annual lawn party on Saturday, September 11.

It is expected that the course will be very nearly the same one that was used by the Jamaica Centrals, other than the race will finish at the clubhouse on Green street.

Entries should be mailed to William D. Murphy, Jamaica Plain K. of C. Club, Green street, Jamaica Plain.

INTERNATIONAL GOLF MATCH DECLARED OFF

Toledo, O., Aug. 6.—The international team match for $1,000 which was to have been held at Inverness next Sunday, as a prelude to the national open tournament, has been called off, according to announcement made here by the Inverness tournament committee.

The reason for the cancellation, it was said, was due to the delay of the British Golf Association in giving its sanction to the appearance of Harry Vardon and Ted Ray in the match.

YANKS GET BIG SUM FOR TOLEDO EXHIBITION

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 6.—The New York Yankees will play an exhibition game with the Toledo club of the American Association here on Wednesday, September 15, it was announced by Roger Bresnahan. One of the largest cash inducements ever granted for a single ball game was guaranteed by Bresnahan for the engagement. The amount was not made public, however.

Game at Tufts Oval

The Medford Hillside Men's Club will clash with the Crimmins-Peirce nine of Boston at Tufts Oval tomorrow, and a good game is expected. Nelson, who has been pitching fine ball this season for the Crimmins-Peirce team, will be on the mound after a brief rest and should be in good form.

GRUDGE RACE ON AT REVERE

Didier, Wiley and Chapman in Three-Cornered Paced Event Tomorrow Night

Didier's charges that he is unable to get on with any of the first string motor-pace followers since the arrival here of Charlie Chapman's direct challenge to Wiley for a return engagement so aroused Manager Butler that he has agreed to let the three men have it out tomorrow night in a special grudge affair at the Revere cycle track over the thirty-five-mile route.

The French star has not been seen in many of the races at the beach oval, but it was understood that he was not in the best of condition, but his recent statement that the local stars had apparently worked a "frame out" on him makes the coming race loom up as somewhat interesting.

Wiley had planned a layoff after a strenuous month of racing, but he quickly accepted the challenge which would tend to disprove the French star's charges.

Freddie Hill of Watertown has been selected as one of the riders in the pursuit race which will be the second feature for tomorrow night. The rest of the riders have not been named as yet but with Hill in it is certain that a fast field will be picked.

CHET LAROCHE TO COACH THE YALE FRESHMEN

New Haven, Aug. 6.—Chester James LaRoche of Boston has been appointed coach of the Yale freshman football eleven for the coming season. LaRoche has completed three seasons of football at quarterback and halfback. He prepared for Yale at Exeter.

ADVISORY BOARD O. K'S BILL BINGHAM

The graduate advisory committee of the Harvard track team has unanimously approved the selection of William J. Bingham to act as supervisor of that sport during the next college year. The Harvard management within a few days will put the proposal before Bingham, who is at present in Texas and his decision is expected before September 1.

Lowell, Aug. 6.—Referee Billy Gardner stopped the Silent Martin-Frank Carbone bout and declared "no contest," when the boxers refused to show a little ambition after having been once warned to fight. Young Ketchell and Barney Burke boxed a draw in the eight-round semi-final.

WHITE SOX OUT FOR REVENGE

Gleason Team Beaten in Opener, Starts After Red Sox in Earnest Today

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6.—Southpaws were slated for a corking duel when the Sox of White meet the Sox of Red today in the second contest of the series. Barrow nominated Harry Harper for a crack at the champions, while Lefty Williams, owner of a long enduring losing streak, was slated to send them over for the White Sox. The Fenway Park crew believed they would take another fall out of Gleason's team, for Williams, in his last seven starts, has emerged with only one victory.

Despite the disability of Waite Hoyt, who underwent a minor operation for an infection of his lip, the Red Sox are well stocked with hurling material for the next three contests here. When the Red Sox reached town they were greeted by Elmer Myers, the tall right-hander recently obtained from Cleveland via the waiver process, and he is available for a sizzling assignment if necessary. However, Barrow proposes to work Harper, Pennock and Bush in the remaining struggles.

White Sox Regard Jones as Hoodoo

The Red Sox were feeling chipper as a result of their 4 to 2 victory over Eddie Cicotte and the White Sox crew in the opener. Sam Jones, who now is regarded as a hoodoo by the champions, registered an easy victory. He worried in much more impressive style than he did when he threw the Gleasonites for a loss at Fenway Park on July 21 and might have turned in a shut-out. However, with the score 4 to 0 in favor of the visitors in the eighth inning the Red Sox right-hander eased up a bit. Chicago then got one tally in the eighth and another in the ninth inning.

In addition to starring in left field, where he collected six put-outs, Mike Menosky led the Boston offensive, getting a single that hammered home two out of three runs scored in the third inning, and a triple in the eighth that later blossomed into the fourth run for Harper's men. By beating Chicago the Red Sox prevented Gleason's men from taking second place.

J. WOOD PLATT, LOW SCORER AT SHAWNEE

Shawnee, Pa., Aug. 6.—Playing steady golf, with a round of 77, J. Wood Platt, the Philadelphia city champion, won the medal in the qualification test of the invitation tournament of the Shawnee Country Club. There were close to ninety starters, and so keene was the play that those with scores of 85 found themselves at the bottom of the first sixteenth.

VARDON AND RAY TIE WITH LAGERBLADE AND FRENCH

Youngstown, O., Aug. 6.—Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the English golf professionals now touring the country, played a thirty-six hole tie with Herbert C. Lagerblade and Emmett French. The Americans were one up at the end of the first round, but the Britons evened matters by taking the second round by the same margin.

FLYNN MAY DIRECT ST. ANSELMS' ATHLETES

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 6.—William Flynn of Taunton, Mass., a former student of St Anselms College in this city, will probably succeed Father Valerian as director of athletics at the college. Father Valerian is not expected to return to the college in Manchester after the Fall. Flynn captained the varsity baseball team in 1915. He has been a student at Holy Cross.

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"The World and His Wife," soon to be seen in motion pictures at the best theatres, is a Continental production released as a Paramount-Artcraft picture from the play by Charles Frederic Nirdlinger, founded on the dramatic verse of Jose Echegaray.

Screen Version Novelized.

By Jane McLean

IF Julian's lot was torture, the lot of the young wife was torture, too. Brought up in seclusion, never having had to face the stings and arrows of the world, she now found herself despised by the only man she had ever cared for. Could punishment be greater? Despised for deeds of which she was innocent, even in thought, and censures that no word of hers could clear away the mist that had blotted her husband's vision with false images and accusing phantoms.

Ernesto, the poet, and his military friend did not go directly to the cafe. Wickersham had been doing some rapid thinking; it seemed to him a shame that this young man should be shipped off to South America to satisfy the malicious tongues of gossip. He thought he saw a way to help him and at the same time to free Julian of his presence.

"See here, Ernesto," he said in a smooth way. "I have an idea that it's going to cost you a pretty penny to get to South America. Now why don't you stay right here and keep at work on your writing?"

"Where?" asked the young man.

"Well, there's a little studio belonging to a friend of mine that you can have for a song—fact is he'll be jolly well pleased to have it occupied—it's on the outskirts, in a pleasant little wood; quite a homey place—say the word and we'll see him this afternoon."

"And what—what do you think the effect of this would be?" asked Ernesto, hesitating to put into words his real meaning.

"I thing the effect would be better than the other way—you remain here—you are not afraid of anything—you have done nothing wrong—and to secure perfect freedom you move into this studio—could anything be simpler, more natural?"

Wickersham's logic was unanswerable; he watched his companion as he spoke; here truly was a chance to see for himself how much Ernesto was in love with Teodora. Wickersham was enough of a student of men to realize at once that the poet had been under the sway of stronger feeling than friendship. It was a relief since it justified his actions. The young man's eyes expressed more gratitude than his speech.

"I want to do what is best, captain; I have been cruely suspected by Don Julian, and yet I have nothing but regard for him; and as for his wife she is like a sister to me."

The details of the arrangement looking to the occupancy of the studio were quickly completed; the owner asked no rental; he was off to Italy for a few months; Ernesto would be conferring a favor on him to take his place in the bachelor home while he was gone.

The young man accepted the offer with all the Spanish grace with which it was tendered and forgot the proposed visit to the Granada to go out to see it.

Wickersham went along; it was a pleasant little house, more of a bungalow than a cottage, fitted up artistically, boasting of a main sitting room and off to one end a bedroom accessible only through the front.

"Chummy little quarters, I'd call 'em," remarked the Captain with an appraising eye.

Ernesto was delighted. "Here I can have peace," he said, "no one will disturb me here. I can come and go as I like."

With the key in his pocket they retraced their steps toward the heart of the city and entered the cafe, while the convivial Don Alvarez was amusing a libulous company with an exploit that vastly tickled their sense of humor.

In fact, he had been relating a ruse whereby he had persuaded the group of strolling singers to pause before the patios of his rival and there sing the song that had so aroused the anger of Don Julian. Applause had acted on his rising spirits like the wine he now sipped, and seeing Ernesto seated with the Englishman, he forgot his good breeding and, holding high his glass, motioned to the young Spaniard and said, in a voice loud enough for all to hear:

"Gentlemen, I propose a toast—to a melancholy young lover!"

Ernesto rose and moved slowly to face the other, the whiteness of wrath making him seem almost too deliberate.

"Gentlemen," he said, while the eyes of the cafe were focussed on him, "I, too, have a toast—to such a blow for a liar and a scoundrel!" and, swinging his arm with a rapid stroke, he caught the astonished Alvarez under the ear and dropped him with neatness and celerity.

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

"JUDGE not, little girl," said he. "Judge not. It's easy to be wrong. Some folks ain't fair to our Val. You wouldn't do anything to fasten blame on an innocent person. I know that, or I wouldn't know a thing about folks."

Then I told them of the one day remaining before the husband put the law on the criminal's track, and of the position of trust the wife had aided the girl in obtaining. And when I had finished, the two old dears were looking at me with grave tenderness in their eyes. Uncle Ned sat holding Aunt Mollie's hand between both of his, and looking at her for approval he spoke, with no pretense of misunderstanding who was the "wife" of my story.

"Have you searched all through your clothes, Anne?"

"No, I haven't," I confessed.

"Well, well call the rest of our afternoon together postponed and you go straight home and search through everything you had on that day. I reckon you'll find your ring. In a pocket or caught in a hem or some place that's so likely you never thought of it at all. But anyway, we love you for the way you's stood by that girl."

"I believe you're right," I said, unutterably relieved. "I'm going right home, and I feel sure I'll be back here in an hour with the ring on my finger."

At the door Aunt Mollie added a gentle word.

"I'm sure my Neddie's right, Anne. We'll see you back with the ring in an hour, and we want you to know, dear, that we are proud you came to us. But we ain't going to make any mention of this confidence ever, nor yet let ourselves figure on who the little girl who might have taken the ring can be—unless she needs us some day."

"You dears!" I cried. "I know I'll find my ring. And you've made me very thankful I didn't steal—the girl's chance!"

Eagerly I whirled home from my first visit with Aunt Mollie and Uncle Ned. I was convinced that I'd only have to search my peignoir to find the missing ring and end the ugly mystery which had clouded the past nine days.

On my arrival, Hedwig greeted me with two messages. One was from Phoebe, asking that I telephone her as soon as I came in. The other was that Bertha had called me over the wire three times, and would call me again at 6 o'clock.

In spite of the fact that my eagerness to search for the ring brooked no delay, I raced to the phone and called Phoebe.

"Oh, Anne, I want to see you!" she cried, almost tearfully. "I simply can't go on like this. Virginia hardly notices me and indeed she's never here to speak to me. She's out all the time with Sheldon Blake, and when she's in she's so grim and forbidding that I hardly dare speak to her."

"Phoebe dear, what is there to do," I asked, feeling impotently that I was helpless in the face of any problem that included Virginia.

"Let me come over and stay with you," begged Phoebe.

"But how can I, dear?" I asked. "In Virginia's present reckless mood she mustn't be alone. If she's going to race around with Sheldon perhaps all that saves her from the cruelest of criticism is the fact that you are here in the house with her. Aren't you brave enough to stay—and protect Jeanie from herself and the world?"

"Oh, if you put it that way I suppose I must!" agreed Phoebe.

Even while thanking my stars that I had hit on the magic word to persuade Phoebe to remain with Virginia I wondered if it would last. But I had another problem now.

I hurried to the closet where my orchid peignoir hung. With trembling fingers I dragged it out and went over to the sight of my big west window. Something struck against my ankle as I carried the filmy mass across the room, and a great wave of joy surged to my heart at the impact. The ring—it couldn't be anything else! I was the thief of my own missing pearl.

As I pulled the material toward me I realized just what must have happened. When I thought I put the ring in its box I probably let it slip from my fingers. Instead of rolling along the floor and hiding in some crafty it had caught in the hem of my filmy negligee and here it was, lodged where my own carelessness had permitted it to hide for so long.

My hand found the hem, searched its way along the material and came at last to the round edge. I threw back my head and laughed. Daisy wasn't the thief after all.

Suppose I had let my suspicions run away with me. Suppose I had followed the dictates of circumstantial evidence. Suppose I had even done the logical thing under the circumstances and feeling as I did—that would have been to decline to recommend Daisy for the position she craved with Tom. How dearly Daisy must have paid.

While I was thinking this out, my busy fingers had ripped the hem and were feeling their way through its silk-padded thickness to the round object that was to be the goal of my ambitions. I found it and knew even before I pulled it out to vision that it was only a weight.

Practically I explored, pockets, laces, ribbons—every portion of the negligee had to yield up its least secret. But the ring wasn't there. Half distracted, I sat back to think.

Then the phone rang again. I hurried to answer. A voice came over the wire and pleaded and whimpered.

Delicatessen Dinners

By Loretto C. Lynch.

AS a rule, it is more expensive to patronize the delicatessen shop than to cook at home in one's own kitchen. But there are times when we must patronize the delicatesen shop for one reason or another. The foods purchased at the average cooked-product shop have a characteristic flavor which is not always welcome.

Little Miss Mathers was one of those clear girls who had the happy faculty of being able to work each day and still make you feel she was mighty glad to see you when, perchance, you dropped in on her round six o'clock in the evening just because you happened to be in her neighborhood. The other night, I did just this very thing. And there were two other guests besides.

Right down stairs in the apartment house in which Miss Mathers has her tiny studio is the most delightful delicatessen a hungry person could imagine. And thither she hetfog herself when we arrived so unexpectedly.

It might have been half an hour before the meal was ready, but it tasted nothing like the average delicatessen meal. There was ham, but it was not served as plain, cold boiled ham. The majority of shops sell boiled hams delicately undercooked in order to avoid shrinkage and the consequent loss in weight. But Miss Mathers puts a lot of butter on the fry pan and panned the ham for a few moments.

She warmed up the potato salad until it was pretty brown. Then there was piping hot canned peas. These were served with a delicate sauce and nicely seasoned. Of course there was soup. It was canned tomato, mixed with a pinch of soda added and then gradually stirred in a pint of milk. It made just four servings.

And we had dessert, too. At first we thought it was a dessert that might have taken half an hour to prepare. But it was simply canned peaches drained from the syrup and topped with a generous scoop of whipped cream. A bit of candied celery or fruit from the candy box added to the color scheme of this dessert.

But there are lots of meals one may make from the delicatessen shop that simulate the home-cooked. And they are decidedly desirable in emergency and if the family consists of but two people. Did you ever think that you might have smoked beef tongue and spinach with very little fussing?

Open a can of spinach and put it on a china dish to stir. Pare four potatoes and boil about twenty minutes, starting with boiling water and salting near the end of the cooking period. Heat the spinach and put the sliced cooked tongue in a strainer and dip into the potato water quickly heated through. In half an hour, you will have a delicious little dinner which will frequently surpass the home cooked.

No Prospect

"Now, if you could just hit it right by composing the words for a popular song," urged Jones to his friend, Wilky, "you might get independently rich." "I know it," remarked Wilky, "but, alas, I am educated!"

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Advertisement.

Household Suggestions

To clean finger-rings, wash in a hot lather of soap, water and ammonia, using a brush to remove the dirt from the chasing and beneath the stones. Dry on a warmed towel.

Decanters are best cleaned by filling with strips of brown paper and cold water. They should be quite full. Shake the paper about and leave for a time, then empty.

If linen is stained with tea, the stains can be removed by applying glycerine. A little of the best glycerine should be rubbed on the stained parts before washing.

To prevent cheese from getting mouldy, wrap it in a cloth that has been dipped in vinegar and wrung as dry as posible. Keep in a cool place.

* * *

Cracks in furniture should be filled in with beeswax. Soften the beeswax until it becomes like putty then press it firmly into the cracks and smooth the surface over with a thin knife. Sandpaper the surrounding wood, and work some of the dust into the beeswax.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.—Advertisement.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Finlay

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

FINLAY.
VARIATIONS — Findlay, Findley.
RACIAL ORIGIN—Scottish (Celtic).
SOURCE—A given name.

SCOTTISH family names, taken as a class, do not parallel those of Ireland in one respect. They are not overwhelmingly Celtic, either in language or in the method of formation. And there are reasons for this.

In the first place, the blood of Scotland is far from being overwhelmingly Celtic. At the time of the Roman domination of Britain, the country north of the great wall which marked the northern limits of the empire's government was inhabited by the Picts, a race more similar to the Cymric branch of the Celtic race, like the Welsh, the Cornishmen and the Bretons. About the third and fourth centuries of the Christian era the Gaelic Celts of Ireland came over from Ulster and settled themselves in the Highlands. Then, when the Anglo-Saxons invaded England they rut well north into the lowlands. Norman and then English conquest and occupation followed on a large scale before surnames became true family names. Hence there were influences of many races at work.

The name of Finlay, however, is truly Celtic. Originally its form as a given name was Fionnlaoch, a compound of "fionn," meaning "white," and "laoch," meaning "fighter," or "soldier." When it first became a family or clan name, of course, it was preceded by "Mac," meaning "descendant of," but in the course of time this has been dropped, and the name has developed variously into the modern forms to be found in this country today.

The name of Finley, in the earlier history of America, is identified with two callings, most of all, pioneering and preaching. John Finley, son of Archibald Finley of Buck's County, Pa., is supposed to have been a companion of Daniel Boone in his explorations. Indeed, it is practically established, historically, that he was. The Finleys in America are all descended from Michael Finley, who came to Philadelphia in 1734 from County Armagh, Ireland. He was a Scotchman, and two of his sons, Samuel and James, were Presbyterian clergymen, graduating from the famous Log College on the banks of the Neshaminy River. Samuel was president of Princeton later in life. This original Michael Finley is the ancestor of Samuel Finley Breese Morse, who invented the telegraph.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

A Flirting Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am twenty-five—me! a girl of twenty- three, and have been going with her three months. We have learned to like each other very much.

When at the beach together, I go in for a swim, and when I come back I find her talking to two other boys, whom I am sure she has never met before. I object to her flirting. If I drop her I fear it will break her heart—but I doubt her—so can't be happy with her. T. G.

I DON'T like your snobbery much better than I like the girl's flirtatiousness. Don't marry a girl you can't trust. But don't condemn her on suspicion. Why don't you talk the matter over with her—giving her some idea of your feelings of pride and dignity and your desire to have her hold herself above cheap flirtations?

When Love Dies.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A few months ago I met a man whom I learned to admire very much.

He did not tell me he loved me, but came to see me every evening, took me to business in the morning and called me on the telephone twice every day, having luncheon three times a week and dinner three times a week with me.

We were speaking seriously of announcing our engagement, when after dinner at his home, while escorting me home, he told me he cared for me no longer and couldn't explain the reason. I fainted and have been ill since.

I pleaded with him and to give me a reason. All he could say was "It is not your fault. I just don't care any longer."

Later, he came down to see me, and asked me to forget all he said and allow him to call as a friend to see me. M. L. F.

I WISH I could help you. But that would require magic such as no one possesses. When love dies it can't be rekindled. Why this man has tired of you we don't know. If he has no more stability than this, isn't it better to know it before you're married and in a fair way to have your life wrecked? Perhaps nothing would stand you in good stead now as the courage to cut yourself off from him entirely and so to give yourself a chance to forget and him the opportunity to see if he regrets. This, I'm sure, is just what you don't want to do. As an alternative you have the chance of following his suggestion. But suppose the flame does rekindle—isn't there all the likelihood in the world that it will be snuffed out again? The man may be one of those who like novelty and who can't be held once it has burnt out. You may be the sort of girl to give too freely and lavishly. I commend you to courage and good sense.

A Quarrelsome Lover

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am eighteen and have been going out with a young man seven years my senior for some time of whom I think a great deal. The young man has proposed marriage to me, but I am undecided what to do, as whenever we go out together, which is four or five times a week, he continually quarrels with me from the time we leave my home until we return. He only spoiling his own and my pleasure, but also the pleasure of a young couple who spend a day with us. A. F.

IF the young man nags at you and shows that he is actually of a mean disposition and ungovernable temper, then you're taking a pretty unsafe risk when you trust your life's happiness in his hands. But perhaps you're making a needless and annoy him. Suppose you try to soothe him. If he feels that you're making every effort to please him he can't help but yield and to make his calmness your object—he'll conquer his temper out of gratitude and shame.

"You wished it?"

"I was quite willing to try.

After a year or two, I'll know whether I shall ever care to live with him.

"After a year or two!"

"Yes. That was the understanding. And then, if I didn't wish to live with him, we can be very quietly divorced. It was a crazy thing to do. But there wasn't any real risk. Besides"—She hesitated.

"Do you?" he said.

"No, I can't. If I don't fall in love with him, I certainly shall never live with him. So," she added calmly, "there'll be no children to complicate the parting. You see I had some sense, Jim."

She lifted her head from his shoulder and smiled at him.

"It was just an escapade of sorts," she explained more cheerfully. "It really doesn't mean anything yet, and I fly around and have a wonderful time, and maybe I'll take up sculpturing with Helen, and maybe I'll try the stage. Anyway"—she pressed closer to him with a happy sigh—"I've got you back, haven't I? So what do I care whether I'm his wife or not?"

He said, holding her closely embraced:

"Suppose some other man should fall in love with you, Steve?"

"Oh!" she laughed, "plenty do. Or say they do. I'm nice to them, and they get along very well. Your mustache is becoming to you, Jim." She touched it curiously, with one tentative finger.

"But suppose you should return another man's love some day?"

"I haven't ever!" she said, laughing back into his eyes.

"No, but suppose you did. And found yourself tied legally by a fool agreement to Oswald Grismer?"

"Oh, I never considered that."

"Consider it now!"

"It isn't likely to happen"——

"Consider it, all the same."

A Promise of Two Years.

"Well—but I've never been in love. But, if it happened—well—that would be a jolly mess, wouldn't it?"

"I should think so! What would you do about it?"

"There wouldn't be anything to do, except to wait until my two years of trial marriage was up," she said thoughtfully.

"You could divorce him before that."

"Or, no. I promised to give him two years."

"To sit saddled with this ridiculous burden for two years?"

"Yes, I promised."

"Oh, Steve! Steve! What a muddle you have made of things! What good does it do you or him to have this chain between you? You've lost your liberty. You're a legal wife without being one. You've put shackles on yourself for God knows what whim of caprice!"

"But, Jim," she said bewildered, "I expect to be his wife, ultimately."

"What?"

"Of course. I wasn't absolutely sure that I could fall in love with him, that was all. I have very little doubt that I shall. I like to be with him; I am never bored when he is with me; our tastes are similar; our beliefs are unconventional. We suit each other admirably. It wasn't such a rash thing to do. You see, it is perfectly safe every way."

For a long while he sat beside her in silence. She had slipped out of his arms and now sat with one hand lying across his, watching the enigmatic expression which flitted over his rather sombre and flushed features.

Finally he looked up.

"Steve?"

"Yes?"

"Suppose I fall in love with—you?"

"Oh, Jim!" She began to laugh, then the mirth faded in her gray eyes, and her lips grew quiet and rather grave.

"How could you have been in love with me?" she inquired, astonished.

"You asked me that in your letters. I thought it over and I didn't see how it could be, either. I wasn't much more than a boy. Boys drift with the prevailing tide. The tide set away from home and from you. . . . Yes, I was in love with you once, Steve."

She bent her head and looked down gravely at her slender hand, which lay across his.

"That was very dear of you," she murmured.

After a silence:

"And—you?" he asked.

"Do you mean, was I ever in love with you?"

"Yes."

Confidences

"I—don't—know. I loved your letters. There didn't seem to be any room in my heart for more affection than it held for you. I adored you. I do now. Perhaps if you had come back——"

"I wish I had!"

"Do you?" She lifted her eyes to him curiously. "You know, Jim, I must be honest with you. I never did love you. But, if you had come home—and if you had told me that you cared for me—that way"——

"Yes."

"Well, I was just a girl. You had my affections. I could have been taught very easily, I think—to care—differently"——

"And—now?"

"What?"

"Is it too late to teach you, Steve?"

"Why, yes. Isn't it?"

"Why?"

"I'm married."

"It's a flimsy, miserable business!" he began angrily, but she flushed and checked him with a hand against his lips.

"Besides—I do care for Oswald—very deeply," she said. "Don't say painful things to me. . . . Don't be sulky, Jim, dear. This is disconcerting me dreadfully. We mustn't make anything tragic out of it—anything unhappy. I'm so contented to have you back that I can't think of anything else! . . . Don't let's bother about love or anything else! What you and I feel for each other is more wonderful than love. Isn't it?

"Oh, Jim, I do adore you. We'll be with each other now a lot, won't we? You'll take a studio in this district, and I'll fly in at all hours to see you, and you'll come in to see me and we'll do things together — everything — theatres, dances, pictures, everything. And you will like Oswald, won't you? He's really so nice, poor boy!"

Glad to Be Near

"All right," he muttered.

They rose; he took both her hands into his and looked intently into her gray eyes:

"I won't spoil life for you," he said. "I'll be near you, now. The old intimacy must be strengthened. I've failed wretchedly in my responsibilities. I'll try to make up for my selfishness"——

"Oh, Jim! I don't think that way"——

"You are too generous. You are too loyal. You are quite the most charming woman I ever knew, Steve—the sweetest, the most adorable. I've been a fool—blind and stupid!"

BEAR RAID IS CONTINUED

Oils, Steels and Motors Are Main Objectives in Morning Drive

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon but there had been a late morning rally which took them to the highest level attained since the opening. Among issues to sell at new low for 1920 were Woolen common, Bosch Magneto, American Can, Chino, Investigation, Kennecott, Keystone, Great Northern ore, Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Cuban merican, General Motors, Peerless, Reo, Studebaker, White Motor, Worthington Pump, Sinclair, Mexican Petroleum, Transcontinental and United Cigar Stores.

The market was very active on the decline, first hour transactions totaling more than 350,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 7 per cent. Perhaps the public has not been a factor in speculation for some time and, furthermore, it is safe to say that it will be much longer before the close termed "outsiders" are participants to any extent. Financial districts are rife with rumors calculated to cause alarm. To some extent they are bear propaganda, but in the main they represent a proposition which is justified in a measure by what is going on in Europe and in this country. Liquidation has been forced in stocks already and there are signs that commodities will be subjected in the same process. While the money situation seems better, business in general is not in good shape.

SHARP DRIVE BY BEARS.

Bears were surprised by their recent success to begin today with a sharp drive, and for ten or fifteen minutes were offered little opposition. When their efforts slackened the market was severed. The rally was not forceful nor did it last long. At the end of half an hour the list could be called irregular, but most stocks were below Thursday's last quotations. By mid-morning the recovery was under way and the market was up all over. Oils, motors and steels were the main objectives in the attack. Equipments stood up better and rails were the strongest group, although Canadian Pacific was a marked exception. Declines during the first hour ranged from fractions to more than two points.

While the call rate has been lowered to 6 per cent. for several successive days, this does not indicate that funds are more plentiful. The money is as scarce as ever in New York and elsewhere. But the liquidation that is going on in security bond prices is certain to relieve the credit strain before long.

Corporation Earnings

July sales by the American Wholesale Co. aggregated $4,617,000, a gain of $1,075,000 over July, 1919. Total sales for the seven months ended July 31 amounted to $23,700,047, an increase of $5,419,306 over last year.

Net profits of the Fisk Rubber Co. for the first half of 1920 were reported at $1,288,000, an increase of $300,000 over the corresponding period last year. For the second quarter, after deducting interest charges and allowance for depreciation, net profits were $13,680,924, an increase of $3,609,000.

For the period from April 1 to July 3, this year, net profit by the Endicott Johnson Corporation amounted to $2,000,000 after allowing for Federal taxes and all charges, including $2,000,000 for the retirement of bonded debt. After deducting preferred dividends the net profit was equal to $44.75 a share on common stock.

July sales by the Stewart Warner Speedometer Co. totaled $1,200,000, against $855,000 a year ago.

Income surplus reported by American Steel Foundries after charges and taxes amounted to $2,958,815, which is equal, after preferred dividends, to $4.62 a share on common stock against $2,000,776 or $3.09 a share in 1919.

The Hartford Automatic Parts Co. reports net profits for the first six months of 1920 of $145,000, which is equal to $14.50 a share on 10,000 shares of common stock. This compares with $94,970 for the corresponding 1919 period, equal to $4.75 a share on 20,000 shares.

Allied amounted to $2,172,067 and profits to $1,467,067.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Aug. 6.—Cotton offerings at the opening of the cotton market forced prices off 11 to 18 points. After the call the list advanced about 20 points from the lowest on reports of heavy rains in the belt, but the gain was held with difficulty. Opening prices ranged from 34.15 to 34.45 for December, January, 29.40; March, 29.07; May, 28.76.

London Market

London, Aug. 6.—The stock market was dull today. Canada, 46¾, 3½ per cent. war loan, 82¾. Rio, 56¾. Rand, 7 15-16. Chartered, 30s. 3d. Rhodesia, 8s. 9d. Shell, 20½. Steel, 4s. 11½. Royal Dutch, 7 3-16.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, Aug. 6.—The subtreasury lost $164,000 to the banks on Thursday, making a cash net loss since Friday of $758,000.

Metal Market Quiet

The metal market is quiet at present with the price tendency toward a lower level. Small copper interests are said to be willing to shade their price for the red metal, but are asking 13½ cents a pound refinery and 13¾ cents delivered. Larger interests are still quoting 13 cents. There is no foreign demand for zinc at present and domestic buying is light. Spot lead is nominal being offered at 4½ cents a pound without support. The Navy Department is to sell 575,000 pounds of lead.

LOCAL LIST IN A SLUMP

More New 1920 Lows Recorded in the Boston Market; Curb Prices Lower

The Boston market was more active than usual during the morning and it was also weak. A number of issues sold at new lows of the year at the start or earlier, including Calumet & Arizona, Old Dominion, North Butte, Calumet & Hecla, U. S. Smelting and Waldorf. Calumet & Hecla was down to 290 before the end of the first hour. Coppers were the weakest class, while rails were fairly firm. Packing shares had a downward trend. Auto accessories showed little change.

Among issues to recede a point or more were Calumet & Arizona, Old Dominion, Osceola, United Fruit, North Butte, Shawmut, U. S. Smelting and International. Preferred issues were retained by Ventura, National Leather, Carson Hill, International Products, Libby, Walworth and Davis Daly.

Edison was up a point and fractional gains were made by Massachusetts Gas, New Haven, Elder and Waldorf.

CURB PRICES LOWER.

The curb market had a quiet start and early prices were lower. It reflected depression on other exchanges. Among the most active issues were Boston & Montana and Mutual. Early advances were made by the last named and Porcupine Premier. Arizona & Wyoming, First National and Verde Mines were among the weak issues.

At the end of an hour Eureka was up 1 cent at 24 cents and Boston & Montana was off 1 cent at 64 cents, First National 2 cents at 81 cents and Mutual 10 cents at 91 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

For the first six months of this year Pond Creek profits were $130,368 net, or equal to $1 a share on common.

The Boston Elevated reports a net profit of $1,100,000 for the year ended June 30.

Albert E. Putnam & Co., are now occupying the entire building at Nos. 7 and 9 State street.

Net profits for Island Creek for the six months ended with June amounted to $960,119, which is equal to $4.65 a share on common after preferred dividends.

The Norfolk Motor Products Co. of Holyoke has filed a certificate announcing the formation of incorporating under Massachusetts laws with $300,000 capital.

We were the pioneers in the option field in all New England. Back in February when the Mark was selling for 1.00 we had a calling rate of 1.96. We then advised our hundreds of customers to take advantage of this opportunity. Those whose foresight was keen and who 'saved themselves of this opportunity are today our biggest boosters.

The books of this company are open for your inspection. We can give you names and data of the various people who took advantage of that low calling rate. We have more Marks under our option than any house doing foreign exchange in the State, if not in the country. For the benefit of out-of-town customers, we will keep open every night, Saturday included, until 10 o'clock. We advise an immediate purchase of options on Marks. We have specialists in foreign exchange—ready and willing to give you advice. Write in or call personally. We do business under our own name. Send for our booklets.

In order to acquaint the public with the general telephone situation, and some of the reasons for delay in completing new installations — chief among which is the difficulty of getting the numerous kinds of necessary material—we have prepared a series of announcements of which this is the third.

New Telephone Equipment Scarce

We appreciate, and with deep sympathy, the feelings of a subscriber who has bought or leased a house in some section where, for the time being, we are without facilities, and who says to our commercial representative: "Why, you have poles and wires on the street and the house itself is wired. All you need to do is to connect us up."

We wish the solution were as simple as all that. There may be poles and wires, but every wire already assigned. There may be a cable, but not a spare circuit in the cable. There may be a spare circuit, but not another inch of available switchboard at the central office with which to connect that circuit. We have had new sections of switchboard delayed weeks in their operation because of the absence of such little accessories as ringing keys or relays.

The reason for this scarcity of telephone equipment is very simple. We couldn't maintain our usual ratio of advance construction during the war, because the government needed for war purposes the very things we needed for telephone purposes. Consequently our margin of reserve facilities was gradually absorbed by the demand.

We are short of copper wire, silk, rubber, clay, beeswax, glass, thread, porcelain, paper, paraffin, antimony

OCEANIC NATIONAL
A NEW BOSTON BANK

The Oceanic National Bank of Boston, a new institution, will be located in the centre of the business district and will open for business in the Autumn or Winter with a paid-in-capital of $400,000 and a surplus of $150,000. The board of directors met for the first time on August 2 and elected Melvin M. Johnson president and made A. T. Tellstrom assistant cashier. Other officers have not yet been chosen. The directorate comprises:

August Bowman, president of Eagle Shoe Co.; Emil Bertolon, of Bertolon & Peterson Engineering Co.; H. H. Bird, president of the Bird Printing Co.; Horace A. Carter, treasurer of the William Carter Company; Ralph Christensen, vice-president of Bertolon & Peterson Engineering Co.; William F. Cronin, president of the Standard Tire & Rubber Co.; E. O. J. Danielson, vice-president of Scott & Company; M. F. Dolan; Walter Farmer, Holmes & Co.; A. Edward Johnson of Mosher & Johnson; J. Emil Johnson, vice-president of Lincoln Car Company; Melvin M. Johnson of Johnson & Nourse, attorneys-at-large, and who is a trustee of Suffolk Law School; Frank A. Magnotta, president of the Italian Producers Importing Company of America; Albert F. Mosher, president of A. F. Mosher Co.; Frank A. North, of Johnson & North; Carl Weinberg, of Tolstoi & Weinberg; Marcus A. Whitton, treasurer of J. O. Whitton Co.

Regarding the board, President Johnson says: "There are a very large number of gentlemen of Scandinavian blood or affiliations who are interested in the bank, although this by no means is a Hyphenated institution."

Town and City Loans

Gardner, Mass., has awarded $50,000, 5 per cent., for 11 months, to the First National Bank of Gardner at 100.33.

Lawrence, Mass., has awarded $100,000 5 per cent. notes, due August 11, 1920, to each of the ten years 1921 to 1930 inclusive.

DUNNINGER KEEPS AUDIENCE MYSTIFIED

Joseph Dunninger, a mind reader, is presenting an unusual and mystifying entertainment at Steinert Hall. Mr. Dunninger began an engagement there last evening by holding the interest of an audience for a couple of hours. The stunts he performed included card miracles and an uncanny skill at reading letters without opening the envelopes. Committees were chosen in the audience to concentrate upon various matters and in every case Dunninger told what they were thinking about. Questions written upon slips of paper were answered in a surprising fashion. Because of the small size of Steinert Hall, almost anybody could get a good seat, and most of those present did so and appeared pleased at the results.

NORTHWAY MOTOR MEN HAVE BANQUET TONIGHT

Jollity will reign supreme tonight at the banquet of the salesmen of the Northway Motors Corporation in the ballroom of the Copley-Plaza. Speeches will be delivered by Frederic Dent Jones, toastmaster, Ralph E. Northway, James F. Flaneran, Carl G. Davis, Charles A. Prouty and A. Hendrick. Frank V. Noyes, John C. Reilly, George C. Fairbanks, Frank Schinkewolf and J. Prindille.

The annual convention of the concern opened at the hotel last night and will wind up with an outing at Lake Pearl tomorrow, to which have been invited the 300 salesmen of the company and their wives and sweethearts, and the 600 employees of the factory at Natick, with their wives and children.

Amusements.

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

"Let Us Have Peace"

Victims of Free Speech Should Be Released

If Attorney-General Palmer has the power of decision he should give careful and prayerful heed to the appeal which Senator France and a delegation representing the American Federation of Labor are to make next week for a general amnesty for political prisoners.

They will not ask that any prisoner be pardoned who was fairly convicted of an overt act against the Government. Their plea will be for the release of those simply who gave offence by what they said.

To the average mind the words in our Constitution—

Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press mean exactly what they say.

Yet, Congress made laws doing precisely what the Constitution explicitly forbade it to do. And courts have construed these plain prohibitions of the Constitution to uphold Congress in its disobedience.

It is under such laws that about 2,000 men and women, who during the war spoke opinions displeasing to majority sentiment, but who relied upon the Constitution for their right to do this, are now held in prison nearly twenty-one months after the war's actual end.

They and many others, including a minority of the Supreme Court, believe that the courts were wrong in reading into the Constitutional mandate a meaning not obvious from its own wording—wrong in law and wrong in policy.

Countries where free speech is permitted are safer countries than countries where suppression of opinion forces underground plotting till the lid blows off in revolution.

But regardless of who is right or wrong on this question of legal interpretation, these persons were swept into prison by a gale of passion. The gale has blown by and they should be freed.

It may be useless now to argue that the espionage and sedition laws should not have been enacted.

It should not be useless, however, to point out that the peril which was offered as the reason why those obnoxious laws should be passed has ceased.

No public interest is served by the continuance in prison of persons put there because their opinions at time of utterance were either unsound and unpopular or only unpopular.

If punishment was needed it has been inflicted sufficiently. The thoughts of the people no longer dwell on those distant differences. The thoughts of the people are properly turning to the problems of the present and the future.

So the timeliness as well as the propriety of mercy is apparent. In the famous words of Grant:

"Let us have peace!"

Teachers of World Urged to Form Fraternal Society

Among eminent visitors to New York is Filippo Ravizza, director of one of the great commercial schools of Italy, in Milan.

Perceiving the need of better understanding among nations and peoples, he suggests the formation in that city, increasingly the Mecca of leaders in education throughout the world, of an international association of teachers.

"What men of all the world," Professor Ravizza asks in a letter to the American, "can more easily be united in a brotherhood? What men more than the teachers feel themselves already living members of the same humanity, in spite of all differences in race and of culture?"

The 1,000-to-1 Chance Man

Locklear is dead.

Locklear was the first man to change from one airplane to another in midair.

Locklear was the man of whom everyone said: "It's a thousand to one he'll get killed some day doing that stunt."

Locklear was not killed changing planes, but he met with death through a variation of the recklessness which prompted his original act. Familiarity had given him contempt for danger.

Locklear knew what people said of him. He was an intelligent man, a nice fellow. He even believed that he was contributing something to aerial navigation But he undoubtedly knew, as he dangled high in air, waiting to go through his blood-curdling feat, that the gaping thousands on the ground below were saying:

Locklear probably realized that the odds were not far out of line. He knew that he could not make one single mistake in his life. Other men might make many errors and still retrieve themselves. He could not make one and live. Yet he persisted at his hazardous game. So Locklear is dead.

"He was a fool," some say, as they gather around a bottle of whiskey for their inspiration. "It was a thousand to one he would get killed if he kept it up."

Then they go on with their own little thousand-to-one game of soaking in poison. They know it will kill them if they keep it up, yet they persist.

Locklear at least got a big financial return for his foolhardiness, the whiskey drinker reaps nothing but poverty and misery to keep him company to the end.

It is a strange mania, this tampering with certain destruction, but better to die as Locklear died than fill a drunkard's grave.

Nothing's Always Wrong

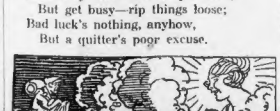
By S. E. KISER

DON'T you get to frettin', friend,
Over troubles left behind;
Hard luck always has an end,
Some day Fortune may be kind.
If the outlook's dark today,
Don't be yieldin' to despair;
Every cloud must clear away,
And tomorrow may be fair.

DON'T you let yourself forget
That the way ahead is long;
You may find good goin' yet;
Buck up! Nothin's always wrong.
Betcha in a little while
You'll be on your toes once more,
Showin' folks a brighter smile
Than you've ever worn before.

HOPE is on the job, old Top;
You can keep her busy, too,
Fixin' up a nice new crop
Of good cheer to hand to you.
If you think you can, you can;
Keep a wallop in your fist;
Manly grit is better than
All the chances you have missed.

SHOULDER up your little pack,
And be on the way you've picked;
Don't you let 'em hold you back;
Show 'em that you're never licked;
Luck may seem to shun you now,
But get busy—rip things loose;
Bad luck's nothing, anyhow,
But a quitter's poor excuse.



Letters to the Editor

A Stenographer's Complaint

Editor Boston American:

The editorial in your editions of August 3 anent the proposed increase of passenger and freight railroad rates will no doubt have the commendation of the many readers of your paper.

It is of the increased passenger rate that I wish to speak, and I feel safe to say that my opinion will be endorsed by a large majority.

When the government under the McAdoo regime put into practice the 3-cent-a-mile rate, travelers and commuters were hard hit—that is, the ordinary person who travels from necessity and not for pleasure.

The 20 per cent. increase soon to become operative will work a positive hardship in many cases. Personally, mine is one of the cases. I commute daily to Boston from a suburb ten miles out at a cost of $2.47 weekly. (This may seem like an insignificant sum to those who spend more than that in tips.) I am a stenographer on a $25-a-week salary, and the support of a widowed mother. Car fares plus lunches spoil a $5 bill out of the $25 every week. When my other expenses are met—well, it's a discouraging story!

It occurs to me that there should be some exception for the daily commuter who travels back and forth day after day. A special ticket or a monthly ticket for all short distances (I can't buy a monthly ticket at present—they are not issued at my point of destination) would be a distinct advantage.

Personally, I am in favor of a strongly organized and concerted protest by commuters principally (because we are the hardest hit) against the 20 per cent. increase in passenger rates. The Boston American is the friend of the common people and I feel that it will raise its voice in opposition to the latest "hold-up."

Respectfully,
A GIRL COMMUTER.

I WAS all alone.
IN OUR apartment.
AND WAS working.
AT MY desk.
AND SOMETHING rang.
AND I hurried.
AND OPENED the door.
OUT INTO the hall.
AND ANSWERED the phone.
AND THERE was no one.
AT EITHER place.
AND THEN I ran.
TO THE dumbwaiter.
AND PUT my head.
INTO THE shaft.
AND YELLED.
AND THE waiter.
stopped.
AND THERE was laundry.
AND A piece of ice.
AND A garbage can.
AND I took them all.
AND THE refrigerator.
WAS FULL of ice.
AND THE new piece.
I HAD to put it.
IN THE sink.

AND I wondered.
WHY IT was.
THAT WE had ordered.
SO MUCH ice.
AND, ANYWAY.
I WENT back to work.
AND AFTER a while.
IT RANG again.
AND I hurried out.
AND THE waiter.
WAS COMING up.
AND I yelled again.
AND STOPPED it.
AND THERE was a box.
FULL OF groceries.
AND A piece of ice.
AND I took them out.
AND PUT the ice.
IN THE sink.
AND MY wife came home.
AND NONE of the stuff.
EXCEPT THE laundry.
AND THE garbage can.
BELONGED TO us.
AND WE'VE quarrelled.
AND ARE all upset.
AND I can't write anything.

AIRPLANE IS NOT EXEMPT EVEN WHEN FLYING

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I was told by an aviator that an airplane is immune from lightning stroke while flying in a thunderstorm owing to the fact that there is no connection of the machine with the ground. Is this true? Why is no thunder heard when lightning discharges on a lightning rod?"—CONSTANT READER.

I DO not think that an aeroplane in flight is altogether exempt from lightning stroke, although generally it may be in very little danger from that source, especially if it is above the thundercloud.

Its lack of connection with the ground does not necessarily free it from the approach of lightning. If it happens to lie in the path of a discharge it may itself serve, being an insulated conducting object, as a stepping stone to the lightning, which zigzags its way through the resisting medium of air, and often, on account of the existence of favorable conducting points, or paths, takes the long way round because electrically it is the shortest way.

If the aeroplane were electrically connected with the ground it would become a flying lightning collector, like Franklin's kite, and would draw off the redundant electricity of the clouds without damage to itself. But, having no such connection, it must accumulate a charge in the presence of a thunder cloud, and the tension might become so great as to induce a flash between the cloud and the machine.

Safety Above the Clouds

If the machine be above the clouds it should be safer than if below, because of the lesser density of the air at the greater height. One reason for this is the greater dryness of the air above the cloud level. Another is indicated by what happens in passing an electric discharge through a vacuum tube. When the tube is full of air the spark makes a bright, fiery line, but "as the air is progressively exhausted from the tube the luminous tract becomes broader and less brilliant until, in the end, it fills up the entire interior of the tube as a faint diffused glow."

What would happen to an aeroplane involved in the midst of a violently agitated mass of thunderclouds is a question that could only be definitely answered (and then only for a particular case) by means of an experiment, the necessary conditions of which would be accidental and would include risks that the bravest aviator might be excused from undertaking.

What Might Happen

The local effects of being in a thundercloud, barring what might happen from the interchange of discharges between the clouds and its neighbors, would probably be more interesting than dangerous.

The machine and occupants would become charged with electricity according in phase with that borne by the cloud, and the ends of the wings might be adorned, as the points of the yards of ships sometimes are, with "corposants" or "St. Elmo's fires." These would all be innocent of harm, but problems must remain for practical solution concerning the possible dangers arising from electric sparks reaching inflammable material, such as gasoline.

NEWLYWEDS SHOULD NOT LIVE WITH PARENTS

By Winifred Black

My Dear Winifred Black:

I am coming to you for advice like so many others who have troubled minds. I have been engaged for the past year and a half, and now my wedding day is drawing near, leaving me with the problem, how can I make my mother happiest—by leaving her alone with my brother, who is not financially fixed, or by living together?

My mother keeps saying, "newlyweds should live alone," and knowing she looks at it from a self-sacrificing viewpoint, and to my interest, I come to you for advice, although I have always taken hers in the past. My sole idea is to make the remainder of her days as happy as can be under the circumstances.

I have spoken to my mother about this, but cannot influence her, although something seems to tell me that down deep in her heart she would rather be with me, and I am tempted to postpone my marriage, but my friends advise me not to, as I have known my fiance for the past eight years and love him dearly. Kindly advise me what to do. It is the hardest problem that has ever confronted me.

Thanking you kindly for the attention I feel confident you will grant a daughter anxious to see her dear mother happy and contented, I remain,

A GRATEFUL AND LOVING DAUGHTER.

P. S.—I have two married brothers.

HURRAH for your mother and her good, plain, everyday, common sense!

No wonder you write a good, sensible, straightforward letter—you're your mother's own daughter, aren't you?

She's right, absolutely right. Newlyweds should live alone, there isn't a doubt of it in the world. You will have to adjust yourself to your husband's way of thinking, and he will have to adjust himself to your habits and customs and points of view.

I know a man who says the only reason he ever had any trouble with his wife was that she came from California and considered no meal perfect without ripe olives and artichokes, and he came from Kentucky and couldn't eat the best dinner in the world unless he had hot biscuits to go with it. Now, if mother-in-law had been there to hear the things the hot biscuit man said about artichokes, or to see the face the California girl made at the very suggestion of bothering with hot biscuits—who knows where the affair might have ended?

But they were all alone, and they quarrelled and then they kissed and made up, and nobody was very sorry for the bride for marrying such a brute, and there was no one around to sigh over the husband for drawing such a mistake in the lottery of love—a woman who'd never made a biscuit in her life.

Love forgives easily when there's no one else around; but love is a vain thing and proud and sensitive, and many a quarrel that would have been made up in a twinkling if the lovers had been alone becomes a tragic thing when there's some one else looking on. Besides, that's what you're marrying for, isn't it—to get away from everybody else and start your own home—all by yourselves, just you two? What do you want of anyone else, and what does anyone else want of you?

And then, don't forget your mother's side of the case. She's had her own home all her life, and she'd be lost without it. Why should she begin to play second fiddle all at once, just because you're going to be married?

Have your mother stay in her own home with your young brother. It is absurd to think of dragging her up by the roots and transplanting her into a new soil, which, perhaps, wouldn't agree with her at all.

Live somewhere near her if you can—she's evidently a good, sensible woman. She has your brother for company, and, anyhow, she has her own right to live. She isn't entirely bound up in you and your affairs. Let well enough alone, my dear—follow your mother's advice, and may you all be as happy as larks.
